ACHS students battle their own robot for trophies, scholarships

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

With the ever-growing popularity of television shows like the Comedy Channel's "Battlebots," aspirations toward science and engineering have become the coolest thing since Apple purged the pocket protectors from the shirts of those with an affinity for computers in the 80s. It's not only a rocket scientist who would know the intelligence and talent it takes to build a working robot capable of completing assigned tasks from a box of miscellaneous parts, but a high school student as well.

Chicago BEST (boosting engineering science and technology) challenged junior high and high schools to put together a team of students to compete in its seventh robot competition that would blend engineering skills, science and technology in a simulated "real world" environment. Antioch Community High School's team took fourth overall and won the Founder's Award for the most unusual approach to problem solving. Also, team member Alan Fettingier received a $1,000 scholarship to help him pay for college next year.

Antioch's team was made up of a coach, teacher Greg Collins; four parent volunteers, Fred Fettingier, challenger Lance Pressl of Rolling Meadows, and Republican incumbent Phillip Crane of Wauconda.

As is to be expected, the two candidates on the Nov. 7 ballot receiving the most attention are the Republican and Democratic candidates for president, but there are many other choices and candidates on the ballot, including local races and referendums.

In the presidential race, six parties are represented. In addition to the Gore/Lieberman Democratic ticket and the Bush/Cheney Republican ticket, Harry Browne and Art Olivier make up the Libertarian ticket. Ralph Nader and Winona LaDuke are the presidential and vice-presidential nominees on the Green ticket. The Reform party has chosen John Hagelin and Mike Tompkins to represent it; and Pat Buchanan and Ezola Foster make up the Independent party ticket.

Candidates in the 8th Congressional District United States Representative in Congress are Democrat

State Representative candidates in the 62nd Representative District are incumbent Republican Timothy Osmond, and Democrat challenger Spiro Georgeson, both of Antioch.

Two items are being put forth by Antioch Community High School (ACHS) Dist. 117.

The first proposition is to issue $55 million in school building bonds to improve the site at Grass Lake and Deep Lake roads to build and equip a second high school at that location, as well as to build an addition, alter and repair the current high school.

The second proposition is to increase the maximum annual educational tax rate from the current 1.32 percent to 1.60 percent, an increase of .28 percent. While the first item would pay for the construction and improvement costs of the two

Annexation hearing delayed

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The continuation of the public hearing for annexation of the Archdiocese of Chicago property, as well as the two properties owned separately by Alfred Pedersen and Dale Pedersen to be held at the Antioch Village Hall Nov. 6, has been cancelled.

Bob Silhan, director of planning and zoning for the Village of Antioch, said, "There are some legal difficulties with what the church wants in the annexation agreement. It will be another 30-60 days before this meeting is continued."

The regular meeting of the board of directors of the Village of Antioch will be unaffected by this cancellation. It is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 6.

Veteran's groups across the County will honor those who served

COLLECTED FROM STAFF REPORTS

Every year, on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month, Americans pause to remember our fallen soldiers. Few people today remember this day of commemoration, now known as Veterans Day, was originally a celebration of the end of World War I. It was on that hour of that day, in 1918, the fighting ended.

The day was named Armistice Day in a congressional resolution enacted on June 4, 1926. It was proclaimed a national holiday 12 years later.

Unfortunately, the "war to end all wars" was not. Just a few years after the holiday was proclaimed, war again broke out in Europe. More than 292,000 Americans died in battle in World War II. The Korean War claimed still more American lives.

Rep. Edwin K. Rees of Kansas proposed changing Armistice Day to Veterans Day to honor those who had served the United States in all wars. In 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed into law a bill proclaiming Nov. 11 as Veterans Day.

In 1968, a law changed the national commemoration of Veterans Day to the fourth Monday in October. Many Americans protested this change, noting the historical significance of Nov. 11. Congress restored the observance to its traditional date in 1978.

Although the focal point for national ceremonies for Veterans Day continues to be the memorial amphitheater at the Tomb of the Unknowns, local observances occur around the nation.

This year, in Lake Villa, special attention will be paid to Korean War veterans. VFW Memorial Post 4308 will host a dinner to honor the 50th anniversary of the "Forgotten War." The dinner begins with a social hour at 6 p.m. featuring a cash bar. A buffet dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Following dinner, an "open mic" will afford an opportunity for veterans to share memories.

The dinner is $10 per person. Raffle tickets, benefiting the Illinois Korean Memorial, will be sold for $1 each or six for $5.

Tickets are available at the Post Canteen. Call 356-9848 for information.

The VFW Post will also have a short ceremony at 11 a.m. at the Post Home on Grand Ave.

The following day, from 6 a.m.-

Victory Lakes introduces non-invasive heart screening

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

A new cardiac health screening program will begin at Victory Lakes Outpatient Services in Lindenhurst on Nov. 8.

The program utilizes a test called the Heart SmarTest, which can detect calcified plaque in the heart without injections, surgery or other invasive techniques.

Using a CT (computed tomography) scanner and specialized software, the test takes cross-sectioned pictures of the heart, starting at the top and working its way down. In the span of 35 seconds, 77 images are captured. Each image is equivalent to a 3 millimeter "slice" of the heart.

Victory Lakes radiology technologist Dawn Kennedy explained the scoring system.

"The scores range from 0-400," she said. "If the test shows over 400, we might refer the patient to a physician."

Kennedy pointed out that analysis of the pictures takes longer than the test. Typically, patients are notified of their results in a few days, unless scores appear dangerously high.

Stacey Paydon, exercise physiologist at Victory Lakes, was quick to note that a score of zero does not mean a patient is perfectly healthy, nor does a high score necessarily indicate imminent heart attack.

"Even with a zero, you could still have plaque in your arteries," she said. "You could still have a heart attack."

Plaque is a soft substance that accumulates in the cardiovascular system. It can be caused by obesity, high cholesterol or lack of exercise. The build up in the arterial walls can cause high blood pressure, or lead to heart attack, thrombosis (blood clots) or even stroke. With time, this substance may harden and become calcified.

On the other hand, a high level of calcium in the heart might not mean the patient is in immediate danger, but might indicate the need for a change of lifestyle.

Paydon explained that some people are able to "grow their own by-pass" as their hearts adapt to the calcium in their hearts. Nevertheless, it is not a scenario that can be assumed.

The screening involves more than just the Heart SmarTest. Pat Behling, vice president and Chief Operating Officer at Victory Lakes explained the entire process.

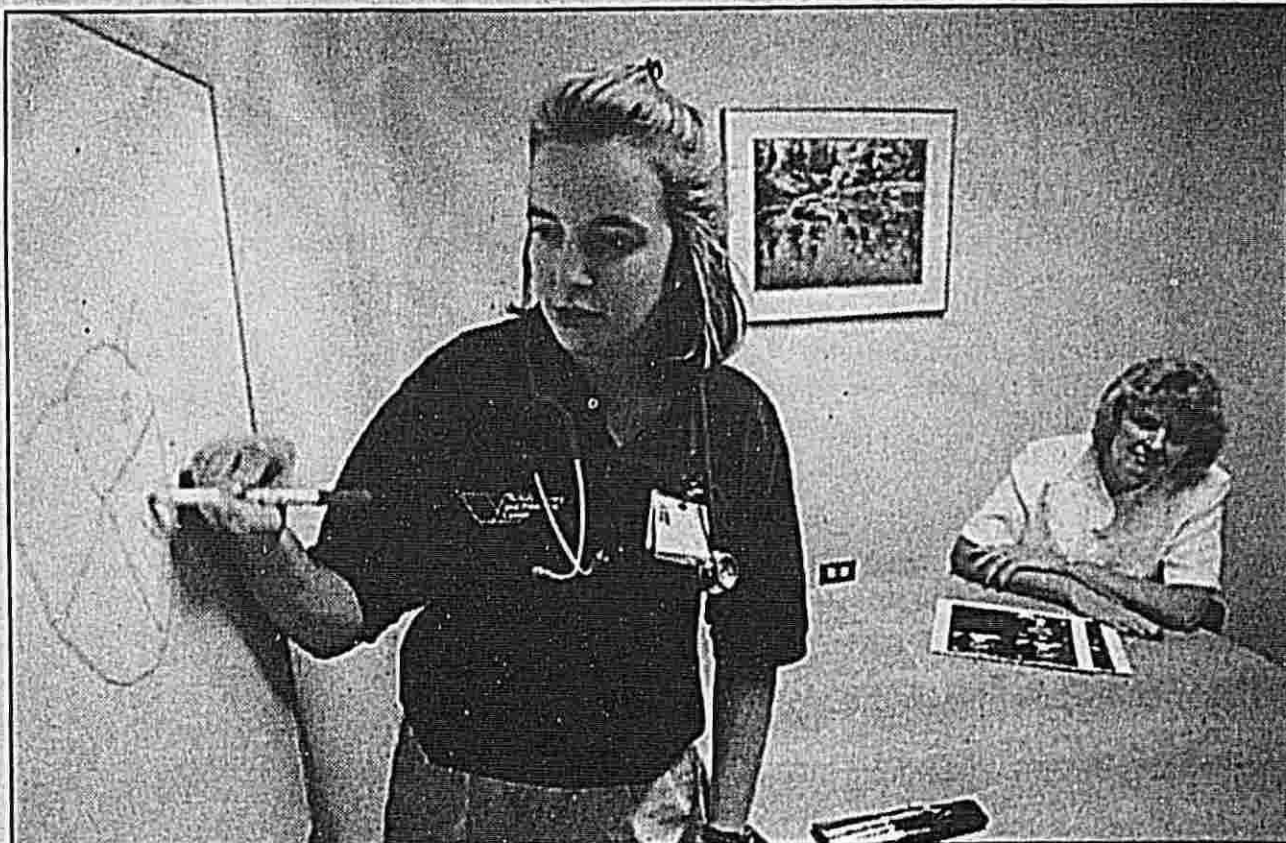

"The procedure involves not just the scan, but blood tests and a risk assessment to determine how healthy your heart is, and what kind of lifestyle you have."

The risk assessment includes an extensive questionnaire that explores questions including age, height, weight, family history, exercise, eating habits, substance use or abuse, stress, safety habits and occupational health.

The resulting profile can be used to help each person screened fine-tune a lifestyle or take therapeutic steps, if required.

Behling stressed that Heart SmarTest is a screening tool, not a diagnostic one. People who have known heart problems should get more extensive testing.

The major advantage to this technique is that it is non-invasive, but gives medical personnel a good look at what is happening inside

Stacey Paydon, an exercise physiologist at Victory Lakes outpatient care center, draws the human heart for Sandie Littner during her Heart SmarTest, which includes extensive education on how to improve the heart and, in some cases, change patients' lifestyles.—Photo by Sandy Bressner the heart muscle.

The screening costs $350, and is not currently covered by any health insurance. The risk assessment profile can be done by itself for $29, without blood tests or the Heart SmarTest scan.

The procedure is recommended for people between the ages of 35-60 who have no known cardiac problems.

For more information, call Victory Lakes Outpatient Services at 356-4711.

Credit high school for business sense

Residents of Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 are blessed with leadership that combines good business management with academic know-how. Rarely is a quality education program achieved without a solid management underpinning. The combination of demonstrated academic attainment and reliable business management is important to keep in mind when deciding how to vote in the referendum presented Nov. 7 to residents of Antioch, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst.

Dist. 117 current leadership, resting in elected representatives and hired professionals, has accomplished a remarkable turn-around from the difficult times of the early 1990s. A new era began six years ago when Dr. Dennis Hockney took over as superintendent. The academic program was overhauled and the existing facilities on Main St. were rehabilitated at a cost of $14 million.

Now growth and development throughout the district has set a new challenge before the leadership and the citizenry: the need for still more room to serve a soaring enrollment that could add 1,000 or more students in the coming decade.

We think ACHS leaders acted wisely in opting for a second school philosophy as opposed to the "big school" or elitist approach of a mega campus to provide for well over 3,000 students in 2009. Thus district leaders purchased 66 acres at Deep Lake and Grass Lake roads for another school to serve basically residents of the south sector of the district and answer once and for all the question of whether the Lindenhurst-Lake Villa area will get its own high school.

District leaders have made a case for supporting more taxes with a proposition that will result in minimal impact on annual real estate tax bills. Key to the financial blueprint is passage of the Nov. 7 proposition to trigger an $11.7 million state grant. With voter approval, Dist. 117 will receive projects worth $70,650,000 at a cost of $43,300,000. That's good business planning.

School leaders and volunteers assisting the referendum are to be commended for providing voters with a complete and easily understood financial plan. Their work has been done. Now it's up to the voters to decide.

Defendants request dismissal of lawsuit

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

About the complaint that was filed in the circuit court of the 19th judicial circuit by Otto Sprenger and the limited liability company (LLC) Deercrest against the Village of Antioch, Lake County and Kenneth Glick, both Glick and Lake County have filed for the lawsuit to be dismissed.

According to Marc Neuman, a participant in Deercrest, LLC, the goal or objective of the complaint is to have Northeast Sewerage System attach to the Sprenger/Deercrest property (referred to as the Sprenger Tract in the complaint) so that the land can be developed under the PUD approved by the Village of Antioch. Neuman said the focal point of the complaint still remains with the county.

Ken Clark, attorney for the Village of Antioch, said, "I haven't filed any motions yet. I want to be able to talk to the board on (Nov. 6)."

Neuman said that Deercrest began making inquiries with the county in the beginning of October to see if they would meet, and to see if some negotiations could be made. Neuman said he (on behalf of Deercrest) believes that such a meeting would be beneficial to all parties. He also said that Deercrest isn't attempting to restrict who could join in the meeting, indicating that both Glick and the Village of Antioch would be welcome.

"The plaintiffs (Deercrest) remain desirous to have a meeting with Lake County, but we haven't been able to set a meeting date," said Neuman.

Footlights celebration offers variety of food, activities

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Footlights 19th anniversary celebration begins Nov. 3 at St. Peter Church in Antioch. Though the event has been around for 19 years, those wishing to attend must be 21 years old.

The event offers plenty of bang for the buck with 11 rooms of food and entertainment, including a sit-down dinner for $10 in advance, or $12 at the door. The ticket price buys as much music, comedy and fun as time allows on any given night. The event runs two consecutive weekends Nov. 3-4 and Nov. 10-11.

Each of the 11 rooms has its own theme. The Blue Note Lounge has been transported from New York and will feature the smooth jazz sounds and variety show atmosphere with Ed Franks "Sinatra" and the Hi-Rollers typical of the East Coast landmark.

Friar Tuck's Banquet Hall will serve a sit down dinner, and will be open from 6-9:30 p.m. Robin and his merry men (and maidens) will share a great feast and fine ale.

A fine cast of local performers will dazzle and entertain in a production directed by Ken Scheske in the "PM&L Presents..." room.

If the fuel tank is on empty, stop at the Pit Stop where the high octane fumes of hot dogs and beer will refill that tank for more fun and frolic.

The Sweets of the Round Table will serve up the finest cakes and confections in the kingdom.

It's said that the two magicians performing their mystifying illusions, and fine music wonders in the Magic and Music Review will even make the audience disappear at the end of every show.

Back by popular demand, the 3 Brothers comedy improv show will be performed at the Comedy Circus.

Local lip sync talents regularly get the crowds rolling in the aisles, and will do so again this year in the Stars of Lip Sync room.

Two rooms will allow smoking: Black Jack and Diamond

Jim's, and Little Havana. The first is Antioch's oldest established casino (license No. CG17) and will be open from 7 p.m.-midnight. It features blackjack, poker, craps, roulette and bang.

Little Havana is a great place to relax and enjoy a big stogie or square and a cup of joe in warm tropical breezes.

All of the proceeds benefit the St. Peter Parish. Volunteer Maribeth Huebner said, "A lot of people participate who are not necessarily part of the parish. It's a great community effort to get this all together."

Passes that are good for all four nights are available for $30. Tickets may be purchased in advance from all of the local financial institutions, St. Peter Rectory, Prince of Peace Rectory, American Family Insurance and Realty World-Tiffany.

Parking will be available on the school grounds, and at local parking lots with shuttle bus service available. Organizers suggest attending on Friday when the event is less crowded.

Let nothing prevent you from voting

The other day I overheard someone say, "I'd really like to vote for Ralph Nader, but it's so unlikely that he'll win. I don't even know where I'm supposed to vote. I think I'll just skip it."

We are so lucky to live in a country where we have the privilege to vote, and where we are offered a wide variety of choices in candidates and issues on our ballots. It's easy to take for granted the things we are accustomed to having.

I don't know if Nader can win or not, but one thing is clear: no candidate can win without supporters showing their support by voting.

My husband became upset with our almost 11-year-old daughter for offering her support, such as it is, to a candidate for a superficial reason. Her age and maturity aside, one of the great things about living in this country is that we are free to base our decisions on the things that are important to us, regardless of what another thinks of our thought process.

There are people in other countries who would (and do) literally kill for the rights we have as citizens.

Don't let a little thing like not knowing where to go to vote hinder the election process. It's easy to find out where to go.

Voters in the 001, 002, 003 and 012 precincts are to vote at the Antioch Upper Grade School located at 800 Highview Dr. Voters in precincts 004 and 005 are to vote at the Antioch Grade School at 817 Main St.

The Lutheran Church of All Saints located at 5800 State Park Rd. in Fox Lake will accommodate Antioch voters from the 006 and 007 precincts. Voters from precincts 008 and 009 will vote at Grass Lake School located at 26177 W. Grass Lake Rd.

Emmons School, located at 24226 W. Beach Grove Rd. will be taking voters from the 010, 011 and 015 precincts. Precincts 013 and 014 will vote at the Antioch Community High School located at 1133 Main St.

All of these locations are handicapped accessible. Precinct numbers are printed on all voter registration cards.

This year's competition, held at Triton College and called "Pandemonium in the Smithsonian," was put forth as a business proposition: "Your firm has been invited to demonstrate that your company offers the fastest and most agile remote salvage and fire safety machine in the free world. Your competition objective is to deploy a halon-based fire suppression system, disable the water-based system and secure selected artifacts in the museum faster than any of your competitors, who will be doing the same thing."

Greg Collins said, "The restrictions were that everybody had the same parts to use, the robot must fit into a 2 feet by 2 feet cube, and it must weigh 24 pounds or less. Teams were only allowed to add decorations."

DeLeo commented, "The fact that they gave us a box of stuff, and we were able to build a robot from it is pretty amazing."

"We laid the parts on a table so we could see what we had, and started to brainstorm," said the coach. "Then as we got ideas, we'd draw them up on the board until we had something we thought would work."

This was the fifth year Antioch has competed, and some of the team's members are veteran robot builders who were able to combine some of the technologies from the previous years.

Greg Collins said it took the team about 80 hours to build the robot. He mentioned it was a bit of an engineering feat to get that many teens together with extracurricular activities and sports going on simultaneously.

Field tests gave teams the opportunity to show off their robots in three-minute runs. A rotation system utilized the five drivers, one at a time, alternating between driving and acting as a spotter to prevent run-ins with walls.

Shaver said, "I really liked getting to see what the other schools were able to come up with for their robots. It was really interesting."

The competition included an oral presentation in addition to the field test. Students were required explain the robot's design, the originality of the features and how it was built. They also had to demonstrate sensitivity to the historical value of the "artifacts" being recovered (as part of the challenge) which were Aristotle's lever, Albert Einstein's chalk and eraser, the Roman arch and Goddard's rocket.

Alan Fettinger, who is a senior planning to attend University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, said, "It was great working on the robot. Of course, I was really happy to win the scholarship, but I was really surprised it was me."

Hartman, a freshman, hopes to build on his experience in the future as this was his first year on the team. He said, "It was really fun to do this, and I'll definitely do it again next year."

Johnson Controls, founded in Milwaukee, is the corporate sponsor of the competition, and is a global market leader in automotive systems and facility management and control.

Local proclamation declares Nov. 15 America Recycles Day

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

At the regular meeting of the board of directors of the Village of Antioch, board members approved a proclamation naming Nov. 15 America Recycles Day.

"This program helps to close the loop. It encourage people to buy recycled products and keep recyclable material out of the landfills," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug. "We are supporting this program."

For the fourth year, the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County (SWALCO) has organized a local-level campaign in support of America Recycles Day by encouraging member communities, businesses, schools and the general public to spread the message, "Be a better buyer—buy recycled."

SWALCO's information states that each year more than 208 million tons of municipal solid waste go into the nation's landfills. It further states that in Lake County alone, households and businesses around the county generate over 2,200 tons of solid waste each day.

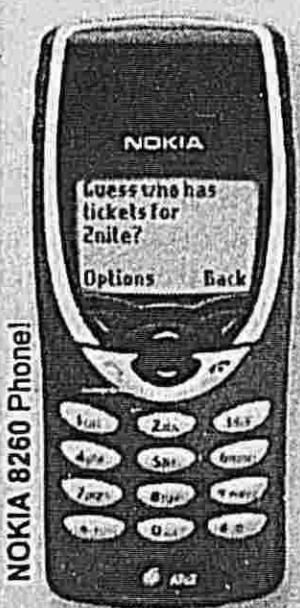

According to SWALCO, Lake County has achieved a recycling rate of more than 42 percent of its solid waste, 14 percent above what is being recycled overall in the nation.

The goal of the program is to raise citizens' awareness of the importance of reusing and buy recycled items; the need to reduce waste by reusing, recycling and buying recycled products; recycling saves millions of dollars in disposal costs while creating jobs, and is an easy way to protect the environment; to avoid the unnecessary use of important resources, and the need to expand the collection of recyclable materials.

ANTIOCH

No valid driver's license

Katrine A. Shaull, 28, of 480 North Ave. in Antioch, was arrested for driving without a valid driver's license on Oct. 28 at 2:55 a.m. at the corner of Spafford and Filweber.

Police stopped Shaull for failing to signal when required as she turned from Spafford onto Filweber.

Shaull advised police she did not have her license with her and that she did not have insurance on the car. Police checked her identifiers through LEADS/NCIC/SOS via dispatch and came back with Shaull's driver's license having expired on April 8, 1998.

She was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where she was put through booking procedures and issued citations for failure to signal when required, no valid driver's license and operating an uninsured vehicle.

Shaull was released on personal recognition pending her Nov. 22 court date in Grayslake.

William H. Hale Jr., 32, of 5550 Winner's Circle in Caledonia, was arrested on Oct. 24 at 7:09 p.m. at the intersection of Rtes. 173 and 59 for driving without a valid driver's license.

Police stopped Hale for having only one headlight. He told police he had not reinstated his driver's license that had been suspended some time ago, but he did have valid insurance.

Hale's identifiers were checked through LEADS, and came back with him having a license that expired Aug. 13, 1998.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for having one headlight and no valid driver's license.

Hale was released on bond pending his Nov. 22 court date in Grayslake.

Warrant arrest

Jeremiah E. Cramer, 19, of 23862 W. Bayview Rd. in Antioch, was arrested on warrant on Oct. 25 at 1:47 a.m. at the intersection of Rtes. 173 and 83.

Cramer was stopped by police for failing to signal as he turned southbound onto Rte. 83. He told police he had forgotten his driver's license at home. Police obtained his identifiers and ran them through LEADS/NCIC/SOS with information coming back that he has a valid North Dakota driver's license.

Dispatch also advised that the U.S. Navy wanted Cramer for military desertion. The warrant was confirmed through Great Lakes Naval. The naval investigator requested that Cramer be transported to the Lake County Jail where naval authorities would pick him up.

Cramer was first transported to the Antioch Police Dept. and issued a traffic citation for failure to signal, and then was transported to Lake County Jail.

Mark J. Rambert, 20, of 267 Hickory Ln. in Antioch, was arrested on warrant on Oct. 24 at 397 Donin Dr.

An anonymous phone call told police of the whereabouts of Rambert, who was wanted.

Police ran a check on Rambert through LEADS/NCIC via dispatch with information coming back that there was an active warrant on him for stalking and intimidation through the Kenosha Police Dept.

Officers went to the address indicated by the anonymous caller, and found Rambert there and placed him under arrest without incident. He was transported to the Antioch Police Dept. and issued a citation for fugitive from justice.

A $2,500 cash intimidation/threats-bond must be posted in Kenosha.

Police transported Rambert to bond court in Waukegan, and he was remanded into custody of the Lake County Sheriff's office.

LAKE VILLA

Battery

Ted Cymerman, 52, of 761 Charlton Rd. in Lake Villa, was arrested on Oct. 20 at 6:36 p.m. for battery.

Upon arrival, police spoke with the victim who said she was struck in the face with an open hand. She also said Cymerman was intoxicated and very belligerent. The victim had marks on her neck and arms.

Cymerman was arrested and transported to the Lake Villa Police Dept., processed and read his miranda rights.

An assistant states attorney was notified and approved the battery charge.

According to the police report this was the second time in 24 hours officers had been called about a disturbance with Cymerman.

Cymerman was transported to Lake County Jail until bond court.

Video camera system installed in Antioch squad car

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A video camera has been mounted into one of the Antioch Police Dept.'s patrol units to assist efforts to arrest and prosecute traffic offenders, particularly those driving under the influence (DUI).

The camera was donated to the department by Lake County's Traffic Safety Task Force "Stayin' Alive," and is valued at $3,600.

Antioch Police Lt. Ron Roth said, "We have just had the unit installed, and still need training on it. We anticipate using it mainly on the night shift to help us with DUIs."

Roth added, "The equipment has sound, in addition to the visuals, that should be very helpful. The officer will have a device on his belt that will record both what the officer and the suspect say."

The Antioch Police Dept. has taken an aggressive stance on DUI violations in the last year. From 1999 through September 2000, it has increased DUI arrests by almost 75 percent. Due to the department's size and limited resources, as well as the rapidly growing population in the Antioch area, the task force felt the department could benefit from the use of this equipment.

"In fact, we are at this time soliciting grant requests from all the police departments in Lake County. We have approximately $65,000 in grant funding available to police agencies to conduct extra DUI enforcement and also to assist in the purchase of video cameras," explained Tim Kalter, coordinator of the task force. He added that this donation has nothing to do with the awarding of any grant money.

The "Stayin' Alive" task force is funded by an Illinois Dept. of Transportation Safe Communities Grant. The College of Lake County sponsors the task force.

For more information about the task force and what they do, please contact them at 543-2827.

LOCAL DIGEST

Audition notice

Auditions for PM&L's holiday Christmas show "Sprucey, the Blue Christmas Tree" will be held Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. at the PM&L Theatre located at 877 Main St.

There are roles available for a girl and a boy between the ages of 8-12 years old, and for six adults of various ages.

The play will be performed on Dec. 9-10, and Dec. 16-17. It was written by Antioch's own Donna Ahear and will be directed by Gigi Willding from Ingleside.

For more information, call 973-1251.

Holiday craft show

The Ladies Auxiliary VFW Post 4451 is hosting its annual holiday craft show on Nov. 4 from 9 a.m.-4 p.m., and on Nov. 5 from 11 a.m.-4 p.m.

The VFW Hall is located at 75 North Avenue in Antioch.

For more information, call Dorothee at 395-6934.

Holiday lights of Antioch

Antioch residents who enjoy decorating their houses with lights for the holiday season will be eligible to win some great prizes from the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

The judging will take place on Dec. 17. Those interested in participating in the competition need to register with the Chamber over the phone at 395-2233, by mail at 882 Main St., or in person at the same address.

Chamber gift certificates will be awarded in the amounts of $300 for first place, $200 for second place, $100 for third place, plus five honorable mentions at $50 each.

Movie to benefit food pantry

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

On Nov. 25 at 10:30 a.m., area children will be treated to a free movie at the Antioch Movie Theater while getting into the true holiday spirit of helping those who are less fortunate. In an ongoing tradition, the First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBE) sponsors the movie for children of all ages who bring two non-perishable food items to the theater to be donated to the Antioch Food Pantry.

"This year's movie is 'Stuart Little,'" said the bank's marketing officer Karen Kubin. "We do this every year as part of the Antioch holiday celebration. It provides parents with a perfect opportunity to get some holiday shopping done in downtown Antioch while their kids see a great movie and help a charitable organization."

Items high in demand are canned soup, peanut butter and jelly, macaroni and cheese, noodles, and both hot and cold cereal. The movie is free to each person who brings two or more non-perishable items to be donated to the pantry.

"Stuart Little" is rated PG and has been adapted from the 1945 children's book by E.B. White. It tells the story of a mouse who is adopted into the home of the Little family, played by Geena Davis, Hugh Laurie and Jonathon Lipnicki.

"This movie is not just for Antioch residents," said Kubin. "Anyone is welcome who is making a donation to the pantry."

The Antioch Movie Theater is located at 378 Lake St. in Antioch.

For more information about the free movie or the Antioch Food Pantry, please call Kubin at 838-2265.

PTO auction to enhance curriculum

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Lower Grade School PTO will conduct its second annual Turkey Trot auction on Nov. 18 at Maravela's Banquet Hall in Fox Lake beginning at 6:30 p.m.

"The PTO has several fund-raisers throughout the year, but this one is our biggest," said Sue Pingel, who chairs the event. "The money raised last year was enough to begin updating our library with current books and software. It is our goal to raise enough funds this year to help us enhance our science and technology curriculum."

Hors d'oeuvres and a disc jockey are included in the $10 per person entry fee, but beverages are to be purchased from a cash bar.

Pingel said the PTO is shooting high this year and hopes to raise $10,000, a 33 percent increase over last year's effort. She noted that the entry fee only covers expenses and that the money the PTO makes comes from the auction and raffles.

"A lot of local businesses have been very supportive and have donated lots different items," said Pingel. Bulls and Blackhawks tickets, getaway overnight stays in Wisconsin, a tour of the state capitol building and an overnight stay in Springfield, plus dinners in local restaurants are just some of the things being auctioned to the highest bidder.

"There are lots of dollar raffles throughout the evening," Pingel added. "We raffle a lot of frozen turkeys so that people won't have to buy one for Thanksgiving. That's also why we hold this event before Thanksgiving."

Classes at the school make special theme baskets as part of the silent auction. "Parents usually get into bidding wars over these, because they want something personal from their child's class," said Pingel. The money made from these baskets goes directly back into the individual classrooms.

"We hope that people will stick around after the auction this year to enjoy the DJ," concluded Pingel. "It's a great opportunity for a night out to socialize too."

Vacations are all in the family

Since I was 16 years old, we have taken a family vacation in November. I don't know why my mom all of a sudden decided this. My theory is because it was off-season and cheap, but let's give dear old departed mom the benefit of the doubt. She was very strict about school, so why all of a sudden she had a change of heart and thought me missing a week was okay was beyond me. It probably had something to do with the fact that I was old enough to help my dad with the driving, so she didn't have to feel guilty about sticking him with all the behind the wheel time.

Driving and spending money were two of the things my mother hated most of all. Some years we headed for Florida, some years we headed for Texas or Arizona, but it was always one of the warmer regions of the country that we visited. It's not like she was some great sun worshipper—In fact sunbathing ranked right up there with flying as far as she was concerned, and I was allergic to the sun. But it didn't matter, I suffered through yearly bouts of sun poisoning, and Mom didn't have to drive with me along—isn't that what family vacations are all about?

My poor father was a saint to put up with the likes of us two. Even after I got married, the yearly family vacations continued and eventually my older siblings and their spouses joined us. Then we all started having children, which was sure to put a crimp on our yearly adventure once they reached school age. Well imagine my delight when we learned our girls' school closes down for an entire week in November—the family vacations could continue.

So the tradition has now reached its third generation—that is until this year. This year I decided to try the "stay at home a week" kind of vacation, and I have to tell you—nobody is happy about it. I figured the dog at least would show me some gratitude for saving him from the confines of a kennel for 10 days, but he isn't pleased with me either. I think though, that has something to do with the recent visit to the veterinarian that surgically rendered him more of an "it" than a "him."

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

So I tried to make it a fun week with only one household project: painting the kitchen. Oh, you can imagine the glee that resonated from my cherubs when they were told we exchanged a week at Disney World for two days of painting. They could barely contain their resentment—I mean excitement. I sort of figured by their constant babble of "I can't believe we aren't going on vacation" that it wasn't setting well on any of them. They act like we will never have use for luggage again. Well I am standing firm and holding my ground on this one.

We will stay home and we will have fun and we will be one big happy family. Besides I just got a call from my cousin and her family have decided to come over for Thanksgiving. So now not only is the kitchen going to get a facelift, the dining room is on my list as well. I can't wait to tell the family.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Free portraits offered at bank

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

As part of its service back to the community, the First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBO) is holding its annual portrait promotion during the week of Thanksgiving. This will be the 15th year the bank has offered a free 10 by 13 family portrait to all members of the community, not just customers of the bank.

"We do this every year for the holidays," said the bank's marketing officer Karen Kubin. "We offer it as a free service to customers and community members. We want people to be able to have their portraits taken in time for the holidays."

Photography dates for the bank's Antioch location are Nov. 20-21 and 24-25. The service will be offered in Gurnee on Nov. 24-25. Sitting times will be scheduled from 3-8 p.m. on the weekday dates, and from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday.

"It's another opportunity for us to give back to the community," said Kubin. "We provide this promotion as a thank you to our customers, and it also gives community members who don't bank here an opportunity to come in and meet our friendly staff."

Pictures will be taken in lower level community rooms of both the Antioch and Gurnee locations. FNBO also offers banking related options that customers can take advantage of in order to upgrade their portraits from a regular photo finish to a canvas finish. Additional portraits will be available for purchase.

Appointments are limited to fit within the dates and times listed, and are booked on a first-come-first-served basis. Those interested in booking a sitting or learning more about available upgrade options can call Kubin at 838-2265.

John Phelps

Grow up, won't you

Of all people, yours truly is one who is used to intense competition. Nothing wrong with that. It's good to sport that go-getter and winning attitude.

But my mother always told me that whatever doesn't kill you leaves you stronger. Parents and fans of youth sports teams should adhere to that advice.

I'm writing to you very disgruntled. That's because I took the liberty of intercepting a Letter To The Editor, received last week from a concerned Lake Villa resident. And the following topic has become a more pressing issue with every passing day and needs to be addressed, if not curtailed.

The gist of the letter revolved around Lake Villa Intermediate School, which recently held Pom Pom tryouts for basketball for the sixth through eighth-grade levels.

I learned that out of 72 girls trying out, only 42 were selected. Okay. Try out again next year-whatever doesn't kill you leaves you stronger and makes you try harder for your next attempt.

But that wasn't the case. Some selfish, for lack of a better term, parties of those kids who did not make their respective squads decided to take matters into their own hands. Bad choice.

The girls chosen, I learned, were selected for not only how good they are, but how much fun and enthusiasm they demonstrated. Okay, fair enough.

Now we're not picking on Lake Villa because they're are plenty of good people there. But this is just one of the numerous cases of its kind taking place these days. And there's nothing like one bad egg in the crowd to go and ruin it for everyone.

When some of the girls were informed that they'd have to wait another year to try-out, my informant tells me that the parents of these girls jumped on the bandwagon and proceeded to pass along threatening phone calls and e-mails to the Pom Pom coach Lynsley Snowden and Cheerleading Coach Demaris Falcon.

Both pondered heavily the idea of resigning their positions.

But it was only at a board meeting last Wednesday that this very topic was addressed.

In short, the majority of folk present expressed their support for Snowden and Falcon.

Now the state mandates that extra-curricular activities are to be under the direction of a certified coach, both of which Snowden and Falcon are. So to have these two highly regarded coaches resign their position would have been a travesty to not only girls who made the team this year, but to one's that may have been looking toward trying out again in 2001.

The moral of the story turned out to be a good one as both Snowden and Falcon agreed to come back. But think about it-some 80 kids, between the poms and the cheerleaders, would have had to suffer for what-a few sore losers that couldn't accept one of life's biggest challenges-defeat!

We have enough grief in the world today, with violence, gangs, drugs, etc. Why should we add this to the equation? I'd like a final answer, or is that asking too much!

I'm told that no official action was taken by the board at that meeting last Wednesday and that everyone was to allegedly pretend that nothing happened. Not me, my friend.

And, Hastings Lake YMCA will be offering Lifeguard classes beginning Monday, Nov. 6. The class runs for five weeks and takes place Monday and Wednesday from 6-10 p.m. Hastings Lake will also be offering an American Red Cross First-Aid and CPR class on Sat., Nov. 4 from 8 a.m.-3:30 p.m. as well as Tuesday and Thursday, Nov. 7 and 9 from 6-10 p.m.

Mrozinski Hungary to compete for world title

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

It's not every day that a Lake County resident gets to compete for a world title. But that's the case for Round Lake resident Jon Mrozinski, 17, who will travel to Budapest, Hungary on November 28 to compete in the Junior World Karate Championships. Mrozinski, a senior at Grayslake High School, will compete in the kata and kumite divisions.

He first began training in Karate at Antioch Shotokan Karate just over two years ago but has quickly risen to the rank of brown belt, the second highest level of belt behind black.

"Some of it was natural skill," said Mrozinski of his quick ascension through the ranks of Karate. "But it's mostly been hard work. If you're not willing to work hard, natural talent won't cut it."

Mrozinski began Karate after accompanying a neighbor to a lesson with his two younger brothers Mike, 13, and Mark, 9, who also attend regular lessons at Antioch Shotokan Karate.

Jon's immediate adeptness in Karate earned him a spot on Antioch Shotokan's competition team the past two years, during which Mrozinski has won numerous competition medals. In fact, Mrozinski is the current AAU National Karate Champion in the kumite.

"I didn't expect to win at nationals," said Mrozinski. "I was up against some very tough competition." This past summer Mrozinski competed in the Junior Olympics in Orlando, Florida where he won bronze medals in both the kata and kumite. This brought him to the attention of the US Junior World Team who extended an invitation for Jon to represent his country in the Junior World Karate Championships.

Mrozinski discussed it with his family and Sensei Anna Connors of Antioch Shotokan and decided to make the commitment and be a part of the team. "It's great to be a part of the team," said Mrozinski. "It's been one of my goals but I didn't expect to reach it so soon."

Since deciding to join the team, Jon has had a very busy schedule. Besides the normal high school classload, he also has a job at Blockbuster Video in Round Lake, takes 5-6 hours of Karate classes per week and has a daily regimen of 300 pushups, 300 crunches and 300 reverse crunches. Plus, he has devoted some of his weekends to raise the $2,500 necessary for him to make the trip.

"It's kind of overwhelming," said Mrozinski of the impending trip to Hungary. "I'm expecting intense competition and that kind of makes me nervous, but I'll cope and try to win." Sensei Connors, for one, believes in him.

"With positive reinforcement and strong training, he should do well for his first year on the world team," said Connors. "He is one of my very devoted students and trains extremely hard to succeed."

Cardiac kids comeback fall just short, 27-25

Sequoits conclude 2000 campaign 6-4

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

For most of the season, the Antioch varsity football team has made it a habit of jumping on teams right from the opening gun.

But in its first-round matchup in the Class 5A State Playoffs, the 26th seeded Sequoits were faced with the enviable task of digging out of a huge hole against No. 7 seed Rock Island.

And the Sequoits didn't disappoint, at least until the final gun sounded.

After Rock Island jumped to a 27-7 lead at halftime and the game seemingly out of hand, Antioch woke up. And momentum had a lot to do with it.

Just before intermission, Brandon White's 45-yard flea-flicker to Ari Brown, who then lateraled to Mark Purnell for an apparent score, was called back because of a penalty.

"We were nervous and out of sync offensively in the first half," said Sequoit head coach

Del Pechauer. "But even though we didn't get that touchdown (at the end of the first half), I think the kids got excited, knowing that they could score on this team."

And coach knows best.

Quarterback Brandon White connected on two bombs in the second half, both to brother Eric White, one a 29-yarder and the other coming by way of 75 yards, as the visitors clawed to within 27-25.

With just over eight minutes remaining in regulation, the Sequoits were forced to go for two after the latter score. But the pass was incomplete.

"The kids said go for it," said Pechauer, whose squad also missed a two-point conversion after its third score. "They felt comfortable with doing it so we went for it and just missed."

Brandon White finished with 167 yards on 9-of-24 passing.

Fullback Dan Miodonski was bruising in the backfield, scoring two touchdowns while gaining a hard-fought 38 yards on 12 attempts.

Tailback Purnell was the leading ground-gainer, totaling 45 yards on 13 carries.

And you can't say enough about wideout Eric White, who hauled in four of brother Brandon's passes for 132 yards.

The Sequoits, despite being bounced from the playoffs, have nothing to be ashamed of.

Antioch, which finished 6-4 overall and 3-2 (third place) in the North Suburban Lake Division, earned the playoff win by cruising past Mundelein 43-7 in the season finale. This season marked the third consecutive year the Sequoits have made the postseason dance.

Earlier in the year, Antioch looked as good as any team in the area when it handed co-NSC Lake champ Libertyville its only loss, a 41-6 rout.

Many holes will be void heading into next season, with Brown, Purnell, the White brothers, and defensive specialist Scott Hodina graduating.

But waiting in the wings includes the likes of quarterback P.J. Hilbert, running backs Allen Patin, Matt Green and fullback Miodonski.

Returning to the defense includes linebackers Justin Stigler, Tim Meyer, Dan Church and Mike Klinger. Defensive lineman expected to return and make an impact include Jeremy Hall, Tom Chilcote, and Scott Gehrke, just to name a few.

Cross country concludes season but they will be back

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Success breeds success!

And judging by how the fairly young and inexperienced Antioch varsity boys and girls cross country teams did this season, chances are, you'll be hearing more good things in just under a year from now.

That's because the boys team loses only Eric Langner and Nick Downard, two of the Sequoits top five runners this season.

Returning includes the likes of two sectional qualifiers in senior-to-be Ryan Moxley, who has assumed the No. 1 position, and sophomore-to-be Jim Beatty.

Moxley finished 127th with a time of 16:56 at the Schaumburg sectional Oct. 28.

"I know he wasn't happy with his time," said head coach Dave Judson. "We tried to get him out faster and he did, running a 5:15 for the first mile. Same thing with Jim (Beatty), who ran 5:29 for the first mile. They just ran out of gas towards the end." Beatty wound up finishing 152nd after clocking in at 18:02.

But they will be back, as joining Moxley and Beatty for the 2001 campaign will be Andy Napier, David Dee, David Cook and Justin Mehaffey. The Sequoits No. 8 man Mike Addison will also be looked to step it up next season, as will Ben Renschen, who Judson said did a superb job for his first year of cross country.

"We have five out of seven of our top runners back and that's fantastic," said the coach. "We have very high expectations for next season. We just need to keep training and getting in shape, especially over the summer months, so that we can get to that next level."

And the next level is exactly what the varsity girls are staring at square in the face. The Lady Sequoits were bridesmaids in the following events; the NSC Meet, the Woodstock regionals, the Prospect Invitational and the Leyden Invitational. The Lady Sequoits also claimed fourth at their own invitational, fifth at the Crystal Lake South and Warren Invitational, and seventh at the Wauconda Invite. But most importantly, they return everyone.

"I couldn't be more pleased with how well we did especially for how young we are," said head girls coach Dick Harland, whose team finished 18th at the Schaumburg sectionals Oct. 28. "The last 3-4 races, they really learned how to run together and what pack running was all about."

At Schaumburg, sophomore Robyn

Mortenson was the top Antioch runner, finishing 58th in 16:31. Junior Holly Clarke finished 85th (16:55), sophomore Amanda Hammond 107th (17:11), sophomore Lauren Cole 108th (17:31), junior Laura Hammond 109th (17:33), sophomore Beth Fries 111th (17:34) and sophomore Kari Hintz 122nd (17:51).

"All of the girls ran great the first mile and we had nice pack running-we were just too far down the line," said Harland.

Harland pointed out Mortenson being one of the pleasant surprises this season. Mortenson, after being the fifth or sixth runner all year, really turned it on down the stretch.

"The last 3-4 races she was either first or second on the team," said Harland. "She a young lady with a lot of talent."

According to Harland, the Hammond sisters, Cole and Fries all turned in solid and consistent season's. Clarke, the Sequoits top runner didn't have a Clarke-type year but looks to put a stronghold on that No. 1 position next season.

"She will probably be the top runner for us," said Harland. "But the girls are really pushing each other. But they do it in a team-oriented way, which is the best part."

The Lake Villa Sunday Featherweights came away with their sixth win of the season defeating McHenry 19-6. Sean Hertz started the scoring with a 55-yard TD run on LV's first possession. Unable to move the ball on the ground, McHenry went to the air often and were able to go into halftime tied at 6. LV's defense came alive in the second half with Joey Ramos coming up big for the Wolves. Ramos stepped in front of a McHenry receiver for an interception and raced 60 yards for the go ahead score. With McHenry still unable to move the ball on the ground, they went back to the air once again. This time it was Matt Limbert who made the big play, intercepting a pass at midfield and returning the ball to the 10 yard line. From there, Hertz scored his second TD of the game. QB TJ Siwy hit a wide open Brian Schmidt for the extra point conversion.

LV's Saturday Featherweights (6-2 record) begin their own playoff run this coming Saturday. LV's offense is led by QB Beau Blumen-schein, and the strong 2-way play of James Manheer (RB, LB), Chris McCracken (RB, DE), Dominic Funari (TE, DE), and Ted Bariamis (RB, CB). Anchoring the offensive and defensive lines are John Knott, Mike Knapmiller, John Edk and Eric Nusbaum.

NEW VIDEOS AT THE ANTIOCH PUBLIC LIBRARY

Toy Story 2

John Lasseter and his gang of high-tech creators at Pixar create another entertainment for the ages. Like the few great movie sequels, "Toy Story 2" comments on why the first one was so wonderful while finding a fresh angle worthy of a new film. The craze of toy collecting becomes the focus here, as we find out Woody (voiced by Tom Hanks) is not only a beloved toy to Andy but also a rare doll from a popular '60s children's show. When a greedy collector takes Woody, Buzz Lightyear (Tim Allen) launches a rescue mission with Andy's other toys. To say more would be a crime because this is one of the most creative and smile-inducing films since, well, the first "Toy Story."

Although the toys look the same as in the 1994 feature, Pixar shows how much technology has advanced: the human characters look more human, backgrounds are superior, and two action sequences that book-end the film are dazzling. And it's a hoot for kids and adults.

The film is packed with spoofs, easily accessible in-jokes, and inspired voice casting (with newcomer Joan Cusack especially a delight as Cowgirl Jessie). But as the Pixar canon of films illustrates, the filmmakers are storytellers first. Woody's heart-tugging predicament can easily be translated into the eternal debate of living a good life versus living forever.

Black Catholics to convene

In November, for the first time in the Archdiocese's history, nearly 1,000 Black Catholics from parishes throughout Cook and Lake counties will convene on the South Side of Chicago to celebrate the history and gifts of Black Catholics and to vote on issues of importance to the Archdiocese. This Convocation, "Summoned by the Holy Spirit—A Call to New Life," will call delegates and representatives together on Nov. 3-4 to discuss and vote on a series of recommendations designed to provide the Archdiocese with community input regarding its policies and procedures. The Convocation marks the beginning of Black Catholic History Month and will signal a paradigm shift in the life of the Archdiocese of Chicago and its relationship with the growing Black Catholic community.

Most Rev. Joseph N. Perry, Auxiliary Bishop of Chicago; Joan F. Neal of the Convocation Steering Committee; Sheila Adams, Archdiocesan Director of African-American Ministry, and other members of the Steering Committee's award-winning video that showcases the vibrant, but little-known, history of the contributions made to both the Archdiocese and the City of Chicago by Black Catholics. Those contributions can be traced as far back to Chicago's earliest days, when Jean Baptiste Pointe du Sable, a Black Catholic explorer, was the first non-native settler on Chicago's shores.

The history that began with du Sable continues on Nov. 3 and 4 at De LaSalle Institute, site of the Black Catholic Convocation. On Friday, Nov. 3, Francis Cardinal George, OMI, Archbishop of Chicago, will be the principal celebrant for the Convocation's opening liturgy. On Nov. 4, delegates will discuss and vote on a series of recommendations on issues—such as parishes and schools—that affect Black Catholics throughout the Archdiocese. There are two web sites to visit for more information: www.archdiocese-chgo.org and black-catholicchicago.org.

LINDENHURST PARK HAPPENINGS

Learn child-care skills at 'baby-sitting workshop' at Lindenhurst Park

Board meetings

The Lindenhurst Park District board meetings are the first and third Tuesday of the month at 7-9:30 p.m., at the Lindenhurst Park District Community Center.

Entertainment books

Books now available at the Lindenhurst Park District.

Looking for a sure way to get a great return on a small investment? Invest just $25 (new low price) for an Entertainment 2001 book. It's valid right now, until Nov. 1, 2001. When you use it just two or three times, it's paid for itself. Entertainment books provide 50 percent discount and two-for-one discounts on dining, movies, theatre and special events, shopping, services, travel—virtually everything. Why pay full price when you can save with Entertainment 2001?

Baby-sitting workshop

Students will learn the necessary duties required for proper child care. Skills learned will include how to handle emergency situations. Fridays, Session II is Nov. 3, 10, 17 from 4-6 p.m. The fee is $27 resident/$34 non resident. For ages 10 and up.

Senior Aerobics

Attention all seniors 55 and up. Come to the Park District for a very low impact aerobic class taught by a fellow senior. This class takes place on Mondays and Wednesdays from 8:45 to 9:45 a.m., continuous unless notified. The cost of the class is $1. For more information, call the park office.

Mr. Gobbler Craft

A great Thanksgiving decoration for your table or shelf. You will paint a variety of wood shapes and add feathers. Thursday, Nov. 16, 4-6 p.m. for children 6-12 years old. The fee is $12 for residents and $16 non residents.

Watercolors are fun

Flowers and landscapes in pastels. Learn to capture light and blend colors to show the true beauty of nature. This class will cover flower close-ups, leaves, sunsets and landscapes. For ages 7-13, Nov. 7-Dec. 5. No class on Nov. 21. The cost of both these classes is $37 resident/$44 non resident. Call the park office for more information.

Unique frame accents

Set aside some time to join this fun class. Your instructor will share some creative ways to dress up your pictures. Plus some decorative ways to use frames and other decorating accents. Also choose a 5 by 7 inch print to frame. Taught by Debbie Schwerdtman of Bob's Frame Shop in Lindenhurst. For adults/seniors on Nov. 30 from 6:30-9 p.m. $24 resident/$29 non resident.

American Girl trip

Now you can see up close all the books, dolls, dresses and other treasures from the American Girl catalogues. Shop the boutiques and bookstore followed by lunch at the Cafe at American Girl Place.

Price includes lunch and transportation. A fun filled day for mom, grandma and daughters. For ages 5 and up with a parent. Nov. 12 from 10:30-4:30 p.m. The fee is $29 resident/$36 non resident. Call the park office for more information.

Par-a-Dice Casino/Festival of Lights

Climb aboard a deluxe motorcoach and come along to Peoria. There will be two sessions of gaming, interrupted by a buffet dinner.

Then drive through the "Winter Wonderland" festival of lights. Dec. 8 from 7:30-10:15 p.m. For 21 and over, fee is $24 resident/$30 non resident. Registration deadline is Nov. 17.

Office hours

Regular park district office hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is a 24-hour accessible drop box located at the main entrance of the Community Center.

For more information on these or any other programs, call the Lindenhurst Park Dist. at 356-6011 or visit the Community Center at 2200 E. Grass Lake Rd.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident makes plea for high school referendums

Help to save our country by having plenty of good schools for education of all of our children. In reference to the "yes" vote signs located around the Antioch area, I feel all should support it. Although I wasn't born and raised in Antioch and didn't go to the Antioch Community High School or any of my children, I support the double "yes" vote. It seems such a small donation for education—something I didn't have a lot of.

I was born and raised on a dairy farm near Twin Lakes, Wis., now owned by the LaSalette Missionaries. After 20 years of that kind of life, I served 20 years in the U.S. Navy during WWII and after. Then I completed 36 years of work at the Antioch Community High School, doing some bus driving, custodial work, and practically all of the painting, inside and outside of the Antioch Community High School building, grounds and football bleachers. I'm now fully retired.

Resident voices concerns regarding approved PUD

I am a concerned citizen of Lake Villa, of the Deep Lake Shores subdivision near Rte. 132 and Deep Lake Rd. Last week, our Village Board approved an amendment to a Planned Unit Development (PUD) proposal with disregard for local ordinances on matters not limited to the following: system of sewage pipes affecting our lift station; an underground drainage pipe that may send a run-off of oil, automotive fluids and construction debris into Deep Lake and/or wetlands; a dangerous-looking intersection at Rte 132, Deep Lake Shores, and the entry/exit into new development, not to mention the addition of approximately 500 more vehicles using this area from 164 apartments and two car dealerships.

Generally, our neighborhood is not opposed to the development, but to the above-mentioned factors. The latter will affect everyone using Rte. 132 as a thoroughfare because of the increased traffic entering and exiting at this location, two blocks west of Deep Lake Rd.

What benefit to Lake Villa will be provided by adding 164 apartments? Consider the additional burden on our fire and police protection and school systems, not to mention increased traffic congestion and likely reduced property values. Where is the benefit?

We are disappointed in our village representatives who have shown and demonstrated little interest for our concerns and who are determined to push this development through in the name of community development. I encourage Lake Villa citizens to attend a village meeting (every other Wednesday) to experience this firsthand. Or, call the village to address these concerns at 356-6100.

Because of the PUD approval, we have less than two weeks to turn this situation around—Nov. 15—at which time development may begin. Must we wait until a citizen is seriously injured or killed in a car accident to realize that this is a plan lacking adequate feasibility studies? How about a polluted Deep Lake? Please take a look at our web site and become aware of community development: www.ccolv.org (Concerned Citizens of Lake Villa).

Turn back the clock, learn from our past

Thankfully, this election season is nearly over. I'm not sure how much more politicking any of us could stand. But, unfortunately, the consequences of what happens next Tuesday will last for years and years to come.

One of the best ways to measure where we stand today is to turn the clock back 20 or 30 years and compare current society with those earlier times. Could any of us have dreamed in 1970 that 30 years later the Boy Scouts would be an example of a "hate group" and vigorously lobbied against by a major political party? Who could have imagined any public figure saying it's a "woman's right" to pull a baby 80 percent out of the womb and stick scissors in the back of its skull to kill it before its brains are sucked out. And then, to sell its body parts through a very organized and profitable market? Would anybody have taken seriously the notion that an organization called the North American Man Boy Love Association (NAMBLA) would be taken seriously? And who would have thought that almost every new show on television would use open sexual situations and bathroom humor from start to finish?

If you think these things are good and that our culture is going in the right direction, vote Al Gore and Democratic. If you think that these things are disgusting and that it's high time for a change, vote George Bush and Republican. It's no more complicated than this.

LIBRARY NOTES

Lake Villa District Library

Thanksgiving hours

The Lake Villa District Library will close at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 22. The library is closed Thursday, Nov. 23 for Thanksgiving.

Nomination papers for library trustees

Nomination papers for the elected office of trustee of the Lake Villa District Library are available in the library office through Jan. 23, 2001. Trustees serve six-year terms and must be residents of the library district. Nomination papers must be filed between Jan. 15 and 23, 2001.

Information Millionaire

The library will offer a chance to become an "information millionaire" at this introductory course for seniors. You will learn how to find social security news on the Internet, surf SeniorNet and Seniorworld, and find inexpensive places to visit on U.S. vacations in the Elderhostel Catalog. You do not have to take the four sessions consecutively. Call reference to register at 356-7711. Ten people can register per session and more sessions will be added if needed. Lake Villa District Library and Warren Newport Library received a joint grant for this program from the Illinois State Library, a division of the office of the Secretary of State.

Adult book discussion group

The adult book discussion group will meet at the Lake Villa District Library on Nov. 11 at 10 a.m. to discuss "Angela's Ashes" by Frank McCourt. A runaway bestseller about an Irish family with a chronically unemployed and nearly unemployable alcoholic father, abject poverty, and frequent death and illness.

No registration is required. Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Kim Rutter at 356-7711, ext. 233.

Automobile reshaped Suburbs

Find out what Chicago suburbs were like before the automobile with Michael Ebner, professor of history and department chair at Lake Forest College. Ebner will discuss the impact of autos on the development of the nation's suburbs in this slide presentation at the library on Nov. 16 from 1-2 p.m. Refreshments will be served. No registration is required.

Holiday lights around Chicago

Author Mary Edsey will present an entertaining look at outdoor home decorations in this slide program at the library on Nov. 30 from 7-8:15 p.m. No registration is required.

Fair Housing Center of Lake County

Fair Housing Center staff will be at Lake Villa District Library to answer questions and provide information from 9:30 a.m.-1 p.m. on Nov. 21.

Brazen performers of the 1920s

Find out how American women in the 1920s changed their lives through fashion and performance with author Angela Latham at Lake Villa District Library on Nov. 8 from 7-8:15 p.m. No registration is required.

Young people's book discussion

The young people's book discussion group will meet at the library at 1 p.m. on Nov. 7 to discuss "The Farm Summer 1942" by Donald Hall and illustrated by Barry Moser.

Homeschoolers will enjoy the discussion which is perfect for ages 8-12. The theme is American history and we explore the past through fiction. There will be additional copies for checkout at the Circulation Desk. Call Paul for more information at 355-7711, ext. 230. No registration is required.

Healthy holiday snacking program

The average American can gain up to eight pounds during the holidays. Wendy Piekarz, registered dietitian at Provena St. Therese will discuss how to create lighter snacks for a healthier holiday season at Lake Villa District Library on Dec. 4 from 7-8 p.m. Samples will be provided. Registration is limited to 50 participants and will begin Nov. 1.

Internet training

Introduction to Genealogy on the Web
On Nov. 8, the library will offer Internet training from 1-2 p.m., and 2-3 p.m. Internet training will also be offered on Nov. 9 from 6-7 p.m. Learn how to use the Internet at these classes for beginners.

"Introduction to Genealogy on the Web" will be offered on Nov. 15 from 1-2 p.m. Contact the Reference Desk to register at 356-7711.

Friends of the library

Stop by the Friends of the Library booth at the LLV Chamber Family Expo at Thompson School on Nov. 18 to find out how you can become part of the group. The Friends of the Library will hold their next general meeting at 7 p.m. on Nov. 20. Refreshments will be served. No registration is required.

VETERAN'S

noon, a Marine Corps breakfast will be offered at Renwood Country Club in Round Lake Beach. All veterans are invited for the $5 per person event.

In Lindenhurst, a wreath-laying ceremony will take place at 11 a.m. at the flagpole in Linden Plaza.

Rear Admiral David P. Polatty III, commander at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, will speak at the College of Lake County's Veterans Day observance on Nov. 10 at the Grayslake campus.

The program will begin at 11:45 a.m. in the auditorium, C005, with a performance by the Great Lakes Brass Ambassadors Navy Band. The ceremony will include posting of the colors by the Great Lakes Naval Training Center color guard, remarks by CLC students and faculty and placement of a wreath on the CLC veterans memorial.

All Lake County residents are invited to attend the ceremony. For information, call 543-2290.

Area veterans are encouraged to have their vision checked free of charge at Grayslake's vil-lagevision Nov. 11. Owner Connie Cominsky has offered the free exams, a $60 value.

Appointments are required to be made in advance and are first-come, first served. Call 548-2770 to schedule an appointment. "We'd like to completely fill our schedule," she said.

Cominsky's office is located in downtown Grayslake, 101 Center St.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Sequoit Post 4551 in Antioch will be having a special ceremony beginning at 11 a.m. at the VFW hall located at 75 North Ave.

"The mayor, and some of the Cub Scouts will be helping us with the ceremony," said the post's commander Bill Oerly. "The women's auxiliary will be placing the wreath."

The post both welcomes and encourages the community to attend. "Anyone who wants to can come and join us," Oerly added. "We will be having some goodies afterwards."

Wauconda American Legion Post 911 will host a flag disposal ceremony at 7 p.m. Nov. 10.

"We have had it several times before, disposing of flags respectively. People have been bringing them in over the last year. Some of them come in terrible shape, just faded," said Bill Geary.

Last year, Legion members attended area schools to talk with students at assemblies.

"We have a lot of World War II veterans," Geary said.

Geary served from 1965-68 as an airplane mechanic in Alaska.

The hallowed hour of the 11th day of the 11th month at 11 a.m. will mark the Fox Lake ceremony for Veterans' Day, on Nov. 11.

"The Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts will all be there, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and tentatively, Mayor Jim Pappas.

"We will have a moment of silence and the flag will be flown at half-staff," said Chuck Class of Fox Lake American Legion Post 703.

Fox Lake Post 703, led by Commander Dennis Jarr, has about 450 members.

The American Legion in Gurnee will be hosting a turkey dinner in honor of Veterans Day.

The dinner will be held at the hall, located at the corner of Grand Ave. and Milwaukee Ave., on Nov. 10 beginning at 7 p.m. Tickets are $8 and are available at the American Legion hall prior to the event or at the door.

In Mundelein, a local business is offering up its window space to honor those who fought for this country.

Jim Glenn of Edward Jones brokerage firm in Mundelein will be displaying a "Window of Honor" this year. The presentation will consist of red, white and blue paper stars with the names of veterans and their branch of service written on them. They will be displayed until the end of November.

To honor or memorialize a veteran, drop by the office at 13 E. Park St. in Mundelein to complete a star. To receive a star by mail, contact Glenn or his assistant Kris Cassidy at 949-1277.

Ceremonies are being held from 11:30 a.m. to noon on Veteran's Day at the Round Lake Veterans Memorial at 134 Railroad St.

The event is sponsored by Justen's Round Lake Funeral Home and is officially called the "World War II Celebration of Freedom Campaign."

Mark Justen said local Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion Posts will be participating along with the Round Lake area villages.

Justen, owner of the funeral home, explained at noon on Nov. 11 in Washington, D.C. official ground breaking for the World War II monument is scheduled.

Before the balloon release, they have scheduled a World War II veteran to speak about freedom, an invocation and patriotic music.

"We're going to release balloons for each veteran we've served since 1989 until the present," said Justen.

Mock presidential convention held at Grass Lake School

According to votes cast by Grass Lake School delegates from third grade through eighth grade in a mock convention on Oct. 10, George W. Bush will win the presidential—105 votes were cast for Bush, 54 votes for Al Gore and 12 for Ralph Nader.

Eighth-grader Lauren Foerster, secretary of student council, called the roll while student council president Kellie Davis, eighth grade, and treasurer Kelsey Dent, also eighth grade, recorded and tallied the votes.

Fifth-grader Zack Simonini was the star of the delegates at the convention. He enthusiastically boomed out wonderful platitudes about his class to madam secretary before announcing in grandiose style the votes of his fellow delegate classmates.

Kindergartners, first and second-graders wore their campaign hats and buttons that they had made and participated in the singing of patriotic songs, but they did not vote as delegates due to their young ages.

Following the roll call of the classes, State Rep. Tim Osmond delivered the keynote address at the convention. Social studies teacher Caroline Adams, organizer of the event, told the audience as she introduced Osmond that he was invited so that students may have the opportunity to meet one of our elected representatives. Adams explained that Osmond was not there to persuade the delegates to vote for a candidate, but that he would talk about the nation and the freedom that citizens enjoy as a result of courageous men and women who have gone before them.

Osmond traced our roots in democracy back to the framers of the Declaration of Independence, the Revolutionary War, and other wars in our nation's history in which men and women have given their lives fighting for their freedom and honor. He explained about how important it is for everyone to vote because every vote counts. Causes have been won or lost by one vote. He also talked about how young people should become involved in our community and how they can make a positive difference.

Superintendent James Beveridge said, "Tim Osmond gave an excellent speech about our country's history, and the students were really engaged."

Beveridge also said that he liked seeing the gym decorated in red, white, and blue streamers and bunting and that the convention was a fun and interesting way for students to learn about our election process as well as other aspects of our democracy. The school is having a mock election on Nov. 7.

COUNTY DIGEST

Money management

The College of Lake County's continuing education department will present a four-session course on managing your money and assets for a secure retirement from 7-9:30 p.m. on Nov. 9, 16 and 30 at the Technology Campus in Grayslake.

In "Financial Strategies for Successful Retirement" (CFIN 02-002), students will learn how to get the most from their retirement plans, including how to evaluate the lump-sum distribution option and how to reduce taxes through proper estate planning.

The cost is $49 per person, plus $25 for materials. A spouse or guest may attend at no additional cost. For course information, call 543-2022. To register by phone, call 223-1111.

China study trip

An information meeting will be held at 7 p.m., Nov. 10 in Room C003 to discuss the College of Lake County's humanities study tour to China from May 13-June 3, 2001.

The trip will include tours of major cities, lectures, site visits and group discussions. Highlights of the trip will include a visit to historic places in Beijing, Hong Kong and Xi'an, including the Great Wall; the 2,000-year old, life-sized Terra Cotta soldiers, the minority region of Dali in the southwest and major coastal cities. Lectures will explore Chinese culture, history, arts, language and people, as well as China's current economic and social development.

For complete information, call tour leaders George Liu at 543-2948 or Li-hua Yu at 543-2741.

Governor awards $2.2 million grant to Forest Preserves

Calabresa makes pitch for referendum to match grant money from state

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
Staff Reporter

Governor George Ryan awarded two grants to the Lake County Forest Preserves during a stop at Ray Lake Farm in Fremont Township.

The Ray Lake Farm was purchased last year by the Lake County Forest Preserve. Consisting of 403 acres, it became a new and large Forest Preserve in central Lake County.

Ray Lake at one time was a cattle ranch. Now there are 120 acres of wetlands and 80 acres of woodlands and farm fields which will be restored to prairie lands.

The Governor presented a $2.2

Election Day is Nov. 7

Voters in most of southern, western and northern Lake County will have the opportunity to change the balance of power in the United States House of Representatives. All Lake County voters will have the chance to make their statement about open space.

Democrat Lance Pressl is running against incumbent Republican Phil Crane (R-Wauconda) for the 8th District Congressional seat.

Crane has been working to eliminate the death tax and marriage tax penalty. He supports presidential candidate George W. Bush's retirement plan program.

Pressl challenges Crane's positions on gun control, social security reform and labor issues.

An $80 million referendum is on the ballot for Lake County forest reserves.

Approval by voters will enable the Lake County Forest Preserves to buy $70 million of new forest preserve land and complete $15 million of habitat restoration, trails and other improvement projects.—By Carel Schmidtkofer

YWCA hosts 'Week Without Violence' events

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
Staff Reporter

The Lake County YWCA sponsored a "Week Without Violence" effort in North Chicago and Waukegan.

The week held daily events addressing violence in the community.

Churches and synagogues were asked to remember victims of violence at their services with prayer and a moment of silence.

Children of the YMCA School Age Program composed non-violent verses which were attached to balloons. The focus was on making schools safer. The balloons were delivered to homes, businesses and local officials in North Chicago.

Children in North Chicago also led a parade in town with banners, signs and musical instruments to support the elimination of racism and hate crimes.

The YWCA Encoreplus Program hosted a Health Fair in the Belvidere Mall to provide health information to women and girls. Fliers were distributed concerning violence against women.

Men were educated on how to support one another to combat violence against women.

The YWCA is participating in a safe schools program, a community forum sponsored by North Chicago School District 187.

Marty Williams, Marketing and Development Director said this year children were even more involved in the events than previous years. She would like to see this trend continue in the future.

Based in Waukegan, the YWCA has been holding weekly events every October since 1995.

Employer Assisted Housing comes to Lake County

Organizations join forces to develop new employee benefit

By CAREL SCHMIDLKOFER
Staff Reporter

Two Lake County organizations have joined forces, creating a new program to help employers overcome labor shortages.

The Lake County Partners and The Affordable Housing Corporation of Lake County are focusing on employer assisted housing as a solution.

One way employers can help employees obtain affordable housing is to provide closing cost assistance programs, down payment loans, mortgage guarantees, and even group mortgage origination plans.

Corporations can also take advantage of excess land they may already own to either sell at a discount, lease or donate to a developer, thus increasing housing affordability and availability.

At a time of severe labor shortages in Lake County, escalating housing costs are driving professionals, production workers and service providers out of the county.

Hospitals, corporations and manufacturers are struggling with employment shortages that are affecting their productivity earnings.

In other parts of the country, employer-assisted housing programs have been successfully implemented and now Lake County employers are looking into tailoring these programs to their own needs.

More than just a "perk" to keep executives happy, assisted housing can be used to recruit and maintain support staff who seem to have the most trouble finding affordable housing in the county says Lake County

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Grant will provide school cops

In their own words, the boys who have killed in America's schools offer a simple suggestion to prevent it from happening again: Listen to us. Researchers now support the notion that more often than not, kids at school usually knew what would happen, but the bystanders didn't warn anyone.

However, we must not lose sight of the fact that, overall, our Lake County schools are doing a great job. Kids are far safer in school than they are anywhere else, including their homes. Having said that, we must be reasonable in our endeavors to make our schools safe and not fall prey to the tendency to create a more hostile environment for our children.

My office was awarded a COPS in Schools grant award for six new full-time deputy sheriffs in the amount of $750,000. Total non-Federal matching funds (our local share) over the four-year grant period amount to $281,736. The newly-acquired resources will enable us to gain an understanding of the different roles and elements needed to achieve an integrated approach for addressing the problem of violence in schools. The deputies hired under this grant will be responsible for strengthening collaborative school violence policies, procedures and plans. They will implement youth programs both in school, as well as after school.

Anti-drug programs and anti-violence programs will also be developed under this grant. We know that students learn best when they have the support and encouragement of parents, community, teachers and peers. Students throughout Lake County are entitled to a quality education in a safe, nurturing and orderly environment. Our COPS in the Schools program will go far in meeting these goals. I'm grateful for the support from various County Board members.

Crane announces grant for METRA's North Central Line

Congressman Phil Crane announced that the U.S. Department of Transportation will provide a $3,960,000 grant to METRA, the commuter rail division of the Regional Transportation Authority, to begin final design and engineering on the North Central Service Expansion New Starts Project.

"This funding will facilitate the double tracking of a portion of METRA's North Central line thorough northern Cook and central Lake Counties, enabling 22 commuter trains a day to serve many of Chicago's northwest suburbs-plus Chicago's O'Hare Airport—instead of the current 10," Congressman Phil Crane said. "This is exciting news for commuters in northern Cook and Lake counties because increasing train service to the area will help improve traffic congestion."

The project will enhance existing commuter rail service on the North Central Line between Antioch and Chicago from 10 trains per weekday with only one midday train to 22 trains with more frequent midday service. Final design scope will cover the capital improvements needed to implement this expanded service. They include the addition of a second main line track on portions of the Wisconsin Central Ltd., track, signal and station upgrades on the Milwaukee-West Line, five new stations, added parking capacity at existing stations, rail yard expansion and new rolling stock.

Since the initiation of service on the North Central Line in 1996, the line has experienced huge increases in ridership according to METRA. Between 1997 and 1998, ridership increased by almost 27 percent, the greatest increase on the METRA system.

million Open Lands Trust Grant that applies to a 270-acre section of the preserve.

These funds were matched by referendum funds approved by Lake County in 1999.

Tom Hahn, Director for Land Preservation & Special Projects for the Lake County Forest Preserves said the grant money will be used to pay off part of the $7 million purchase price of the farm.

"We are very pleased with the grant and the fact that it is the maximum that could be awarded," said Hahn.

Also awarded by the Governor was another matched $200,000 from the Illinois Department of Natural Resources Bikeways Grant.

This grant will provide the means to provide a link in the Des Plaines River Trail from River Road in Libertyville to Washington Street in Gurnee.

The trail is a multipurpose purpose pathway for hikers and biking. In the winter some parts are used for snowmobilers.

Currently, the trail is complete from Lincolnshire to Libertyville and from Gurnee to the Wisconsin state line.

President of the Lake County Forest Preserves Carol Calabrese lauded the governor and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources for recognizing the value of investing in the two projects.

"It's important to note, however, that these grants would have gone elsewhere if we didn't have matching referendum funds approved by Lake County voters in 1999," said Calabrese.

Calabrese warned that without voter approval of the upcoming November 7 referendum there won't be matching funds necessary to win grants for the county in the future.

HOUSING

Partners Business Development Manager, Sally Harris.

"This is an issue we are going to have to deal with in Lake County whether we like it or not" said Harris.

Lake County Partners and Affordable Housing Corp. offered a conference for employers to learn about employer assisted housing and what it can do for them.

System Sensor, a Division of Honeywell in St. Charles, IL implemented a successful downpayment loan program for their employees in 1999.

They arranged to make available $5,000 loans available to 25 of their employees over a two-year period.

To qualify for the loan employees needed to be working full time with a good work record, had to qualify for a mortgage, and were required to contribute 1% of the home's purchase price or $1,000 towards purchase. The home also had to be located within a 15 mile radius of the St. Charles plant.

Loans would be repaid at a rate of 1/60 per month interest and be forgiven after a five-year period if the employee remained at System Sensor.

Employees who leave the company are required to repay the loan immediately.

Braun said "the program has already paid for itself" in tax benefits in the first year.

Mary Sue Barrett, President of the Metropolitan Planning Council said that residents, local governments and businesses have to work together to meet the "demands for a stable and competitive workforce" in the county.

Change offers vision, promise

Forty years ago the nation was gripped in a tight race for the presidency featuring a vice president who represented the status quo of unbridled prosperity and an attractive son of a famous political family who put fervor and passion into his vision of a new direction for America.

Sounds eerily similar to the 2000 presidential campaign. Almost like a script, only a script with reversed roles. Like John F. Kennedy, Gov. George W. Bush with a famous political name is the harbinger of change, the candidate with the vision for a new, different America. Like Richard M. Nixon, Vice President Albert Gore carries the torch for continuation and contentment, besides offering extending the era of self-gratification, and in maddeningly typical Gore style, a certain smugness.

Kennedy challenged the nation to "get going again." Bush invites Americans of all ethnic backgrounds and political persuasion to "work together" to share the American Dream. Nixon campaigned for continuation of the peace and prosperity of the Eisenhower years. Gore promises an unbroken seam of the Clinton good times and adds, somewhat ominously, "you ain't seen anything yet."

The choice wasn't easy in 1960 and the choice isn't easy in 2000.

For voters, the modern presidential campaign of 30-second sound bites, instant access to information and the output of ingenious spin doctors, does more to confuse than enlighten. No wonder the ranks of the undecided continue to grow. While the unaffiliated may be hailed for their independence and astute judgment, they also have to guard against impulse and manipulation in reaching a decision on who is best qualified to be leader of the United States and the free world for the next four years.

On this basis, do Americans really want to continue doling out under confiscatory taxation more of their hard-earned money to a bloated federal government? Do they want to give away more local control of education as our schools stumble toward an increasingly complex future with dumbed-down standards and low expectations? Do they want to see their Social Security guarantee swirl downward into a blind pool susceptible to special interest raids? Do they want our military might squandered and our national security jeopardized? Do they want leadership mired in frequent scandal and beholden to cultural forces mocking traditional family values?

Or do they want a new administration in the White House with demonstrated leaders like Gen. Colin Powell, Sen. John McCain and Condoleezza Rice dealing with world problems? Do they want a president who will tell the truth and conduct affairs in the Oval Office with dignity and respect? Will Americans be better off with leadership committed to economic growth where citizens manage their own destiny? Is the U.S. better served with a vice president with the knowledge, experience and evenhandedness of Dick Cheney or malleable, unconvincing Sen. Lieberman?

For committed political partisans, the decision long since has been made. Tuesday's outcome will be determined by non-party voters. For the independents and the undecided, we offer this suggestion. Look beyond the sound bites and today's spin. Consider the record of the candidate representing the past and the candidate who offers promise for a new way. Is there more to America than self-indulgence and gratification? Is not the American way one of self-determination and the continual search for individual opportunity? Where the search is aided by a compassionate government, not a dictating bureaucracy?

Vice President Gore is the candidate of the past. In our opinion, Gov. Bush will be a president for the future. The time to take a new direction is Nov. 7 by electing George W. Bush.

Sure thing vote: expand preserves

Voting for the Forest Preserve referendum Tuesday, Nov. 7, is about the closest you can get to a sure thing. Voters are asked two questions: Permission to sell bonds not to exceed $85 million and authority to slightly increase the district tax rate.

Approval of both propositions will guarantee more of what Lake County citizens have been receiving from their forest preserve system for a long time—increased open space, preservation of flora and fauna and nationally-acclaimed facilities and programs.

We urge you to support both measures by punching 141 and 149 on your ballot.

As each day passes, the values of the Lake County Forest Preserve District to our quality of life increases. Continued acquisition of vacant lands and construction of trails and greenway corridors will be assured with renewed citizen support. If new funding is made available, there will be more wetlands created and prairies restored. New dollars provided by the bond sale will go to enhance recreation, insure historic preservation and expand education for generations to come. These are among the direct benefits of your yes vote Tuesday.

Preservation practices of the district also have significant side benefits. Among them are controlling growth and providing for a healthy environment. For the typical Lake County family, the tax rate increase alone for corporate purposes will cost $3 or less per month. The bond costs, running between $20 and $30 more per year on a typical three bedroom home, will be spread over many years. But the benefits will be felt almost immediately.

It's important that political leadership is "on the same page" regarding forest preserve operations, policies and planning. Electors can back the referendum questions with the assurance that promises made today will be promises kept in the future. For now and tomorrow, punch 141 and 149. You're doing the right thing.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Republicans mail million applications

To energize their base vote, state leaders made a mailing to one million known registered Illinois Republicans with forms for requesting an absentee ballot.

The forms addressed to the Lake County Clerk were imprinted with the individual voter's name. The mailing included complete instructions on how to obtain an absentee ballot.

The mailing was sent in the name of the 2000 Republican team—George W. Bush for president; Dick Cheney for vice president; the local Congressman (if applicable) and the local state representative (if applicable).

The ballot application mailing is a continuation of a program started 10 years ago and is orchestrated by Illinois GOP Chairman Rich Williamson.

Township report

Ela Township Republicans will be out Tuesday to reinforce their reputation as Lake County's banner GOP territory—highest number and greatest percentage, 85 percent,

"of party voters." Ela several years ago overtook Libertyville township as the county's top Republican vote producer. Some one-time Republican bastions like Vernon Township have slipped to 50-50 status because of demographic changes. Avon Township (Grayslake and the Round Lake area) has the largest number of registered voters.

Perry pitching

Grayslake Trustee Tim Perry will spark his candidacy for mayor with a combined campaign kickoff and fund-raiser Friday, Nov. 10, at Stratford Banquet Hall, Grayslake. Perry, a banker who currently heads the Grayslake Chamber of Commerce, will have one or possibly two opponents. The Perry team can claim being the first rally for the spring 2001 consolidated election.

Charges flying

Jack Cervac, a retired iron worker running for the Lake County Board as a Democrat, is attempting to energize his campaign with flying charges. He accused his opponent, John Schullen, of fabricating his attendance record at meetings and roll calls. Cervac has raised the possibility of Schullen resigning if re-elected to pave the way for a Republican appointee. Cervac ran unsuccessfully against Schullen in the Libertyville district in 1992.

Cervac:
Alleged negative campaigning against Schullen

Relocating

Former Lake Villa Township Supervisor Ron Coles has purchased a home in the southwest and had plans to relocate before Election Day. He was a power on the Lake County Board when supervisors served double duty. Close friends feted him at a going away party several weeks ago.

Distance running isn't always lonely

On a golden autumn Sunday, Oct. 22, I naturally took advantage of the weather to participate in sports.

In the morning, I rode around a golf course in a cart; in the afternoon, I curled up in my easy chair and watched football.

Sports guy.

Meanwhile, more than 30,000 men and women from all over the planet flocked to Chicago to run a footrace—a 26.2-mile masochistic marathon. (I get tired driving 26.2 miles in my car.)

Of the 27,000 runners who completed that self-torture in Chicago, just for the challenge, some 230 were from Lake County, about 160 men and 70 women—everyday folks like you and I, only with a little more motivation maybe.

This year's race, like last year's, was won by Khalid Khannouchi of Morocco in the American-record time of two hours and seven minutes. Khalid is a professional marathoner who pocketed $105,000 for his October effort. Running comes easy for Khalid, spelling his name is the hard part.

Last among the finishers, after almost everyone concerned had gone home, was Brenda Jackson, 45, of Long Beach, Calif., in eight hours and 41 minutes.

The leading Lake County runners were 30-year-old Jason Doland of Round Lake Beach, 105th among the men in two hours and 39 minutes, and 31-year-old Joanne Ross of Highland Park, 191st among the women in three hours and 20 minutes.

Others from Lake County who ran the distance in less than three hours, and their ages, were: David Engelke, 44, of Highland Park; Anthony Vukovics, 34, of Vernon Hills; Rodger Sykes, 31, of Gurnee; Andrej Tosic, 44, of Gurnee; Chuck Wathen, 44, of Deerfield; Daniel Ewan, 39, of Lake Zurich; and Kevin O'Neil, 34, of Lincolnshire.

THE PFARR CORNER

Poring through the results, I looked for the names of 39-year-old Lisa Halford and 37-year-old Aracely "Sally" Mouradian, both of Antioch. A year earlier, those two friends had run the race side by side and finished together in three hours and 30 minutes. Then, last spring, they did the same buddy thing in the prestigious Boston Marathon.

But Sally had to run alone in Chicago this fall; Lisa is unhappily sidelined with a stress fracture in her heel.

Twenty-one years ago, in the one-mile run, Lisa became the first Mundelein High School girl to win a state championship. Her coach was Jim Halford, her husband-to-be who now coaches the boys' and girls' track and cross-country teams at Carmel High School in Mundelein.

Lisa kept running after high school, "pretty much for fitness," she says. "It's a release. I find a lot of peace in running; that's where I find I can talk to God."

Then, three years ago, she became friends with Sally as their children attended the same school. The Chicago marathon was Sally's 13th.

"She inspired me to start training for the marathon," Lisa says. They often train together, putting in some 50 or 60 miles a week.

"In training, we talk," Lisa says. "I think that's one way you can determine if you have a good friendship, if you never stop talking in a two-hour run."

"But when we run a marathon together we don't chit-chat. We concentrate on our goal and check in on each other to see if the other one is okay."

"You get to the point where your body is totally exhausted. From 21 miles on it's basically what, through training, you have built up in reserve."

"When you finish alongside your best friend, it's such an ultimate high."

"Sally has an incredible support group. Her husband, kids, mom and dad, sisters and two cousins went to Boston with us and were there again in Chicago."

"She has the gift of making everyone around her feel good, an incredibly warm-hearted person and an accomplished runner."

Lisa hopes to start training again in December and next spring run another marathon, side by side and stride for stride with her best friend.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Forest preserve is a good investment

With the stock markets doing all kinds of crazy things, now may be the perfect time to make an investment that will increase in value, year after year, and pay dividends for as long as Lake county exists. A "yes" vote on the Forest Preserve referendums is that investment.

Can anyone deny that a green Lake County would certainly provide a better living environment than would an asphalt/cement Lake County? It follows, then, that a more pleasant environment is reflected in increased home values, year after year.

What about those dividends? Any space that is acquired by the Forest Preserve automatically takes it out of the reach of those developers who would, unconscionably build and build, leaving the added cost of education and infrastructure and police protection to those of us who live in Lake County. The developers' argument that impact fees take care of those added expenses is a long standing joke in the developer community. The dividends come in the form of a more stable tax base and a cleaner, healthier environment.

Invest in a better life in Lake County. Vote "yes" in the Forest Preserve referendums on Nov. 7.

Pay home taxes

Recent news stories have highlighted how property owners have lost their homes through tax sales without ever recognizing that they were at risk. In Chicago, a 76-year old woman lost the deed to her house because she failed to pay a $367 tax installment.

In response to the calls I've received from Lake County residents, as Recorder of Deeds, I'd like to emphasize the importance of verifying that the property taxes on your home or business have been paid in full. Don't let life's distractions keep you from following up on this important responsibility.

Because Lake County is experiencing such rapid growth and new development, it is possible for tax bills to be sent to an old address. If you have recently refinanced your home, paid off a mortgage or been divorced, I would encourage you and every property owner to check that the tax payment was received and credited to your property. Failure to pay property taxes can result in costly penalty fees and even the sale of your property to a tax buyer.

If my office can be of assistance, feel free to call us at 360-6673.

COMMENTARY

to the Democrats.

In all likelihood, Vice-President Al Gore will carry big states like California, Illinois and New York. Despite this possibility, George Bush Jr. may win the White House because of his personality, Gore's unlikability, Clinton's scandals and issues like abortion, gun control and the environment.

Gun show permit denied

Grayslake—Grayslake Village officials took another step in the ongoing battle against the Lake County Sportsmen's Gun Show by denying the special use permit for the show for the rest of the year.

Noting previous violations and three arrests made by undercover Grayslake Police officers at the Oct. 15 show at the Lake County Fairgrounds, a press release from Village Hall announced the suspended issuance of the permits to the Fair Association for the gun shows for the next 60 days.

Hockey teen sentenced

Gurnee—A teenager initially charged with aggravated battery after a cross-check in a hockey game was sentenced in Lake County Court.

The teen, a 16-year old Northbrook boy, was sentenced to two years probation. He will also serve 120 hours of community service at a facility that treats victims of paralysis or the disabled. The sentence also stipulates that the boy should refrain from contact sports and attend anger management counseling.

A hit at the end of a game between Glenbrook North and New Trier high schools at Rink Side Sports left New Trier student Neal Goss paralyzed.

Peaker plant open forum set

Beach Park—A public forum on Peaker Power Plants is set for Nov. 4, at 6:30 p.m. It is to be held at Kenneth Murphy Junior High School on 11315 W. Wadsworth Rd., Beach Park. The public will be able to ask questions and voice opinions. For more information call 746-2629 or check the web site: www.nopeak-er.org.

Dist. 128 seeks referendum

Libertyville—By a 4-2 margin, Libertyville/Vernon Hills Dist. 128 officials voted to ask voters for a 39.5-cent per $100 property tax increase on a February 2001 referendum.

According to the vote, 36 cents of the proposal would cover education and operating funds, while 3.5 cents will be used to recoup some of the construction costs for Vernon Hills High School, and other items.

A July survey showed that there was marginal support at best for the tax increase, and also found that residents were largely unaware of the financial problems Dist. 128 was facing.

One sentenced for hate crime

Fox Lake—Fox Lake Police and residents are pleased with a sentence handed to the last of four defendants in a hate crime case.

Jerry Williams was sentenced to two years in jail by Lake County Judge Ray McCoski last week. Three other defendants in the case had arranged plea agreements.

The incident took place on June 24 in Fox Lake. Williams and three others shouted obscenities at the 37-year-old black woman and a 10- and 12-year-old children about midnight.

Midwife caught on tape

Round Lake Beach—At a coroner's inquest, Round Lake Beach police Detective Rich Chiarello spoke about the information seen on the video tape, regarding the involuntary manslaughter charge of Richmond midwife Yvonne Cryns against the Round Lake Beach infant Spencer Verzi.

Chiarello said on the tape Cryns says after the birth, "Call 911 and get my stuff out of here. I am in danger and am not supposed to be here."

Cryns had been ordered to stop acting as a midwife in April by the state Department of Professional Regulation.

GCHS profits from land deal

Grayslake—For the sum of just $1, an agreement has been reached to transfer land to Grayslake Community High School Dist. 127 for use at the new high school site.

Board president Glen Eriksson announced the agreement at the board's regular meeting. Through cooperation with Community Consolidated School Dist. 46 in Grayslake, the high school district will receive 6.7 acres of adjacent undeveloped land on the far south end of the Avon School property on Rte. 83, south of Rollins.

Hurdles plentiful as CLC women's hoops embarks on season

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

After a sub-.500 season and a fifth place showing the tough Skyway Conference, the CLC women's basketball team will have to overcome a number of hurdles to improve upon last season's showing.

One such hurdle is their relative lack of experience. The Lady Lancers return only four players including just one starter in Jessica Gutierrez.

"We're very young," said head coach Bill Braman. "So Jessica will be a leader. We also have a lot of potential with our incoming freshmen."

Those incoming players looking to make an immediate impact include: Kristen Pagano, Stacie Peterson, Stacey Haseman, Stephanie Cripps and Karrie Hagi.

"Our freshmen need to adapt quickly to the college game," said Braman. "It's a much faster game, it goes up and down quickly. Also, unlike in high school, there is a 30-second shot clock."

Another hurdle deals with injuries. Kalia Martin and Amy Springer are currently on the DL but upon their return, should add depth to the Lancers squad.

CLC's third hurdle revolves around its lack of size. Of the 11 players on their roster, six players are 5-foot, 6 inches or less. This will not only hurt them defensively in the paint but also in the all-important rebounding category.

"We need to learn how to box out on the boards," said Braman. "Otherwise teams will just play over the top of us."

A final hurdle is their schedule. In addition to the tough Skyway competition, the Lancers will play 10 nationally ranked teams, including five in their first seven games.

"That's the way you want your schedule," said Braman. "It's a good way to see where you stand as a team."

Despite the numerous hardships that CLC will face early, this team does have an upside. For one, the team has good overall team speed, which will allow them to get up and down quickly and pressure the ball on defense.

The team also has the potential to be a great perimeter team, capable of draining some outside shots. The perimeter game would complement the inside game of Gutierrez.

"I hope that we're competitive all season long," said Braman. "Once we get all of our players here and healthy we should be fun to watch."

The Lady Lancers will open against defending Division III National Champion College of DuPage on Nov. 18.

Roundup

Women's Cross Country

The CLC Women's cross country team earned their first ever Skyway Conference All-Conference title by finishing in first place at the three-mile conference meet.

Katrina Weyland led all runners in setting a personal-best time of 19:33. The first place performance earned Weyland the first Skyway Women's Runner of the Year and the first place individual All-Conference award.

Also contributing to CLC's first place finish were: Stephanie Hess who finished second overall, also winning an individual All-Conference award with a personal-best time of 21:08, Jenny Hughes who secured the first place CLC finish with a personal-best time of 22:00, good enough for a sixth place overall finish and Meghan Rafferty who was fourth on the team with a time of 29:55.

Men's Cross Country

The CLC Men's cross country team also earned the Skyway Conference All-Conference title by finishing first in the five-mile conference meet.

The team executed their overall team strategy to overtake the highly talented team from Wauabonsee Community College in their quest for the conference title.

The leading runner was Beder Toscano, who completed the course with a time of 27:26 to finish second overall and take home the second place individual All-Conference award.

Team captain Eric Johnson finished second on the team and sixth overall with a time of 28:10 to earn an individual All-Conference award. Brian Schoessow finished third on the team and won the eighth place individual All-Conference with a time of 28:13. Mark Wagner was fourth on the team and won the 10th place individual All-Conference award with a time of 28:25. Rounding out the team were: Jeff Reisher (12th, 29:12), Chuck Patel (16th, 30:05) and Juscalmed Patel (34:14).

Men's Athlete of the Week

Cross country runner Beder Toscano finished second overall at the Skyway Conference meet with a time of 27:26 in leading the Lancers to a first place team showing.

Toscano forfeited what would have been a personal record to help out the rest of the team through the race. Toscano stayed with CLC's second, third and fourth runners to keep them focused in executing the strategy that the team had developed throughout the training season. The rest of the team declared that they would not have been able to do what they did without Toscano's influence.

"It was just the right thing to do for the team," said Toscano.

Women's Athlete of the Week

Cross country runner Katrina Weyland finished in first place overall with a personal-best time of 19:33 in guiding the Lady Lancers to their first ever Skyway Conference title. The first place finish earned Weyland the first ever Women's Runner of the Year award as well as the first place individual All-Conference award.

Prior to the race, Weyland distributed a page of inspirational quotes to the rest of her teammates, and it sure appears to have worked.

COLLEGE SPORTS BEAT

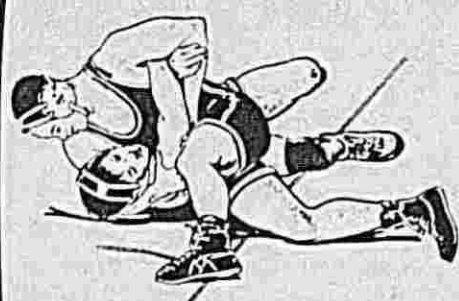

Laura Tipton (Grayslake H.S.) posted a time of 20:05 in finishing in the top-100 in the Tori Neunauer Invitational held at the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse.

Junior midfielder Becca Bleyer (Lake Villa, Grayslake) is second on the Northern Illinois women's soccer team with six goals and five assists.

Junior Jullanna Van Winkle (Libertyville) made a steal inside the box and fired a shot into the right corner of the net as the Rose-Hulman women's soccer team scored a 1-1 tie with Anderson University. Through 15 games, Van Winkle has six goals and three assists. The team is currently 7-8-1 overall and 2-5 in the SCAC.

And, it was announced that Shawn Rudolph, a graduate of Wauconda High School, will be the only returning senior on the Trinity International University men's baseball team for the spring of 2001. Rudolph, a native of Island Lake and the Trojans infielder and designated hitter, hit four home runs last season. Trinity will look to improve on a 14-30 showing in 2000.

Flu vaccine 2000-01 supply Q & A

Will there be a delay in the availability or shortage of Influenza vaccine this fall?

At this time, delays in the distribution of influenza vaccine are expected for the 2000-2001 influenza season. It is also possible that significantly fewer doses of influenza vaccine might be available for distribution than last year.

How much of an influenza vaccine shortage could there be?

Last season, approximately 80-85 million doses of influenza vaccine were produced for distribution in the United States. The exact number of doses that will be produced this year is uncertain at this time. The situation will be continuously assessed and more precise estimates of the influenza vaccine supply will be available in the future.

When will you know how much of a delay or shortage will occur?

The amount of influenza vaccine and timing of availability should become clearer over the next two months. As new information becomes available, CDC and FDA will issue updates.

Who are the manufacturers licensed to distribute Influenza vaccine in the U.S.?

The four companies are Parkdale Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Rochester, Michigan; Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories, Inc., Marietta, Pennsylvania; Aventis Pasteur, Swiftwater, Pennsylvania; and Medeva Pharma Ltd., United Kingdom.

What is the cause of the potential delay and potential shortage of influenza vaccine?

First, some influenza vaccine manufacturers have reported that one of the three influenza virus components used to make this year's vaccine has not grown as well as the corresponding strain used last year. Secondly, two of the manufacturers licensed to distribute vaccine in the U.S. have been experiencing manufacturing problems. Both manufacturers are working closely with the Food and Drug Administration to address these problems.

What is being done to correct the situation?

Both manufacturers are working closely with FDA, but implementation of corrective actions will require time for both completion and review by FDA.

What does CDC recommend at this time in response to the expected delay in the availability of Influenza vaccine and a possible vaccine shortage?

CDC and the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP) recommend that:

A. Implementation of organized influenza vaccination campaigns should be delayed. Health care providers, health organizations, commercial companies and other organizations planning organized, mass influenza vaccine campaigns for the 2000-2001 season should delay such programs until early to mid-November. The purpose of this recommendation is to minimize cancellations of vaccine campaigns and wastage of vaccine doses resulting from delays in vaccine delivery.

Note: This recommendation does not apply to physicians who routinely administer or prescribe influenza vaccine for patients at high risk for complications of influenza.

B. Influenza vaccination of individuals at high risk for complications from influenza and their close contacts should proceed routinely during regular health care visits. Routine influenza vaccination activities in clinics, provider offices, hospitals, nursing homes and other health care settings, especially of high-risk individuals, health care staff and other persons in close contact with high-risk individuals, should proceed as normal with available vaccine.

C. Provider-specific contingency plans for an influenza vaccine shortage should be developed.

All influenza vaccine providers, including health care systems and organizers of vaccination campaigns, should develop a provider-specific contingency plan to maximize vaccination of high-risk persons and health care workers. These plans should be available for implementation if a vaccine shortage develops.

What else is being emphasized for the 2000-01 season?

The other points that should be emphasized for this season are:

- Vaccine providers should continue to administer influenza vaccine to unvaccinated high-risk persons after mid-November and throughout the influenza season.

- Once vaccine is available, routine influenza vaccination of high-risk persons and their contacts should proceed normally, especially for high-risk young children who are receiving influenza vaccine for the first time and require two doses.

- Influenza vaccine purchasers should refrain from placing duplicate orders with multiple companies to minimize the amount of vaccine that is unused.

- In the context of a possible vaccine shortage, contingency plans for persons aged 50-64 years old should focus primarily on vaccinating individuals with high-risk conditions rather than the entire 50-64 year old age group.

- All health-care workers who have close contact with persons at high risk for complications from influenza should receive influenza vaccine.

Why did ACIP and CDC issue these adjunct recommendations at this time?

Many influenza vaccine providers must plan their fall vaccination activities now, even though the vaccine supply situation is unclear. Given the uncertainty about the influenza vaccine supply, implementation of the recommendations can help to increase vaccination of persons at high risk for complications from influenza.

Who is at high risk for complications from Influenza?

In the U.S., 70 to 76 million people (approximately 35 million people aged > 65 years; 33 to 39 million people aged < 65 years with high-risk medical conditions; and 2 million pregnant women) are estimated to be at high risk for serious complications from influenza infections, including hospitalization or death. Persons at high risk for complications from influenza should receive annual vaccination and include the following:

- Persons aged 65 years and older;
- Residents of nursing homes and other chronic-care facilities with residents of any age who have chronic medical conditions;

- Adults and children aged 6 months and older who have chronic pulmonary or cardiovascular disease, including asthma;

- Adults and children aged 6 months and older who have required regular medical follow-up or hospitalization during the past year because of chronic metabolic diseases (including diabetes mellitus), kidney dysfunction, blood disorders (hemoglobinopathies), or immune system problems (immunocompromised e.g. HIV infection, immunosuppressed by medication, chemotherapy or radiation therapy);

- Children and teenagers (aged 6 months to 18 years) who are receiving long-term aspirin therapy and therefore might be at risk for developing Reye Syndrome after influenza infection;

- Women who will be in the second or third trimester of pregnancy during the influenza season.

Note: Unvaccinated persons in all of the above groups should still be offered influenza vaccine even after influenza activity has been detected in a community as long as vaccine is available.

Are we protecting our kids right out of their success?

Hi Everybody,

I heard something in my office this week that was just "itching" to be a column so, instead of answering a question this week, I will comment on what I believe is a very important thing.

Let me first set up the situation: I had a mom tell me that she was very concerned about why her child wasn't doing well in school. Keep in mind that this kid did my program and his skills were more than adequate! She mentioned that each time he was asked to do his homework at home, he would either pout or cry or get angry until he either got out of it or his mom and dad helped him do it. I logically told this mom that if she continued to let this child's emotional outbursts get him out of homework, or bring her near-by, the behavior would continue and nothing would ever improve. I was flabbergasted at her response, but after thinking about it, I noticed that I have seen a lot of other examples of it in our society. She told me that she couldn't bear to see her child struggle and that she would do anything to stop his struggle. While I can appreciate her feelings as a mother, I immediately responded back to her that the struggle is what creates the growth and the learning and the character. The struggle is the gold. It is where the essence of appreciation comes from (have you ever met someone who never had to struggle for anything in their lives-they are pretty scary people.) It is also something imperative for all parents to allow their kids to do in their safe presence so they don't have to do it for the first time out in the world by themselves.

Now, for those of you who think I am a nasty person, cool your jets while I explain! Optimum struggle is the absolute key to achieving greatness. There is not one famous person who I can think of who didn't have to go through some struggle to get to the top. In fact, I heard about a recent study of the top 10 richest people in the world. The people about their past work experiences. Each reported being fired from reaching the thing. Each one of them reported. Some of them reported dinarily well in school. align riches with success hoping you understand gle for success arises the real power and the strong human being inside each one of us! I also had to work extraordinarily hard to get where I am today too. I had my share of failures. Each one lead to something else that was wonderful. The struggle was the very thing that made me as strong as I am now, and I am pretty strong!

PARENT'S PLACE

We seem to have a fear of struggle and a fear of failure in our society. I see this manifesting itself primarily with kids and school performance. We will run circles around kids to protect them from their weaknesses. We contrive situations to make them feel just as successful as anyone else without the same level of effort. Specifically, recently, I have seen many examples of lowering standards to make things easier on kids. I have seen grades done away with so no one gets their self-esteem hurt when they don't do well. If you don't measure anything, I guess you cannot tell how poorly you are doing. I have seen kids who are distractible being put into perfectly contrived situations so that there is nothing to be distracted by. I have seen parents do homework for kids or let kids not do homework because it is causing the child some stress. This is the absolute wrong thing to do to these kids.

We do not live in a stress free world. We do not live in a world with no standards. The adult world and the work world have plenty of standards and we all know how harsh it can be. Why are we handling the past, they will continue to use it even if the work isn't that hard for them anymore. That is a common thing I see with kids who see me. They have some processing issues to begin with, but somewhere along the way, someone has decided to lighten their load when they get upset, so now they get upset for any work at all. Does it mean that their processing is getting worse? No way! It means that the behavior worked before and they are just using it again.

I was very saddened to hear this mom say this, but I felt good that at least I could say this to her and to you. Challenge your kids! Don't ever let them get out of work because of tears or anger. Help them learn how to break something down into smaller parts so it isn't as scary. If you feel there is a processing issue or behavior issue going on, call me and we can get that out of the way. You see, it is best to fix what needs fixing and let the child be responsible for himself or herself as much as possible in his or her life. Making things easier or letting a child not do something because it is hard, is creating a very sad and dangerous path for that child. I want to make sure all of your kids do not go down that path!

Dr. Sherri Singer is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist and Childhood Behavior Specialist. She regularly works in person with many readers of this column, helping them to significantly improve their kid's behavior and learning skills fast. Among many other services, she offers a "Parent Survival Training" class for parents. It lasts 3 weeks and has helped countless families to restore good behavior to their kids and peace and quiet to their homes! She is the author of, "Why Kids Misbehave" and "Raising Kids Who Don't Become Your Worst Nightmare." These kids can do it when given the right kind of mindset!

Now, do not assume here that I am saying that we should load kids up with things that are way above them or way too hard for them. I am saying that we should not design everything to be easy enough for them to handle without any struggle. The optimum place for a child to be operating is at a level of medium struggle. Just at the place where they have to work to get to the answer, but not be totally overwhelmed. If that means that we break things down into smaller parts and then build it back up into the whole, that's what it means. But taking it away and giving a much easier thing to do or to say so we don't have to see the child upset, ever, is just plain unrealistic.

Another thing that can happen from this is that kids can develop a bad habit around being asked to work. If their modus operandi is to cry or get angry when they are presented with work, and that has worked to get them out of it in

Loyola liver transplant program certified for Medicare

Led by two national pioneers in the treatment of liver disease, the liver transplant program of Loyola University Medical Center has been awarded Medicare certification by the U.S. Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA).

"This certification means that we are now recognized by the Medicare program as an established center for excellence in liver transplantation," said Dr. John Brems, surgical director of the program and chief of the division of intra-abdominal solid organ transplantation in the department of surgery at the Loyola University Chicago Stritch School of Medicine.

"In a little more than two-and-a-half years, we have developed one of the leading liver transplant programs in Illinois," added

Dr. David Van Thiel, director of hepatology at Loyola and medical director of liver transplantation. "We have performed 61 liver transplants since initiating our program in early 1998 and have achieved a one-year patient survival rate of 90 percent, which is nearly 8 percent above the national average."

In fact, much of Loyola's success has come in the transplantation of very sick patients who were turned down by other centers and transferred to Loyola, Brems said.

HCFA certification means that patients eligible for Medicare coverage can now apply for Medicare reimbursement when undergoing liver transplantation at Loyola. To be considered for such certification, an institution must have a liver-transplant program that is at least two years old, completed a minimum of 24 liver transplants within that two-year time frame and achieved a patient survival rate of 75 percent.

Experienced team of liver researchers and clinicians

Although the liver transplantation program is less than three years old, the combination of Van Thiel and Brems as co-directors of the program gives Loyola University Health System one of the most experienced liver-disease teams in the nation. The two physicians were responsible for developing five other major liver transplantation programs in the United States before initiating the one at Loyola.

Van Thiel, who is also professor of gastroenterology in Loyola's Stritch School of Medicine, is particularly noted for his work in alcohol-related liver disease, viral hepatitis and preservation of donor organs. In fact, Van Thiel has been treating between 700 patients and 800 patients infected with hepatitis C, a liver disease acquired through blood transfusions or other direct contact with contaminated blood. The disease, which shows few initial symptoms, can be harbored by the liver for years before the virus manifests itself and eventually destroys the liver. Persons with advanced stages of the disease usually require liver transplantation.

By treating patients with high, daily doses of interferon, Van Thiel has successfully cleared the hard-to-kill hepatitis C virus from as many as 60 percent to 70 percent of his patients — the best response rate reported in the world. Destruction of the liver by hepatitis C accounts for nearly 50 percent of all liver transplants, Brems said.

Brems has performed more than 560 liver transplant surgeries during his career. He is currently working on an artificial device that would use normal, human liver cells to perform liver function in patients who have poorly functioning or non-functioning livers and are awaiting transplantation.

Artificial liver devices in use throughout the country traditionally have utilized pig liver cells to clean the blood of patients with diseased livers. Some devices that use abnormal, human liver cells, rather than animal cells, also are being tested clinically. Researchers, however, are concerned that the use of either animal or abnormal, human cells could transmit other viruses or diseases to the patients being treated.

"Developing a device that utilizes normal human cells would alleviate the concern about transmitting disease," Brems said.

Because the numbers of patients in need of liver transplantation continue to outstrip the number of donor organs, both Brems and Van Thiel are studying innovative ways of preserving donated livers longer and successfully using livers that other transplant programs consider less than optimal.

Successful liver dialysis program initiated

Additionally, Van Thiel has initiated the first successful liver dialysis program in the Chicago region to provide more advanced care for patients with liver disease, called the HemoTherapies Liver Dialysis Unit, the technology represents the only liver dialysis therapy approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration.

By using the liver-dialysis device to remove toxins that build up in the bloodstream and suppress brain function, Van Thiel has brought an estimated 50 patients to 60 patients with advanced liver disease out of coma.

"We have the largest treatment experience with this technology in the region," Van Thiel said.

Nearly 100 patients are now on the waiting list for liver transplantation at Loyola. This number is expected to increase now that Medicare certification has been awarded to Loyola, according to Brems.

Brems and Van Thiel are hopeful that their research efforts, as well as those of other scientists throughout the world, will increase the number of usable donor organs for liver transplantation and enhance the rate of successful transplantation in older patients.

ATTENTION
WE DO NOT KNOWINGLY ACCEPT ADS FOR ANIMALS IN OUR FREE/
GIVE AWAY COLUMN.
If you must give up your pet, please consider these facts:

*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.

*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are not reputable and are more concerned about making a profit than the animal.

*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Fashion Show Extravaganza Sunday, November 12

If you have children, know children, or ever were a child, help support the miracle of life at the sixth annual

Dream A Little Dream Fashion
Show benefiting St. Jude
Children's Research Hospital.

Sponsored by Shaker Advertising Agency; official sponsors are The Baby's Room,
Rezko Enterprises and Sara Lee Corporation.

On Sunday, November 12th, join us at the Westin O'Hare
Hotel to view contemporary fashions by Creative Impact Group, furs by York Furriers, and jewelry by Razny Jewelers. Raffle viewing begins at 11am, followed by the luncheon, fashions and special surprises including an appearance by the Red Rose Children's Choir.

The premier research and treatment center for children with catastrophic diseases, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, located in Memphis, Tennessee, has treated thousands of children from across the U.S. and 43 foreign nations. St. Jude's, which is non-sectarian and treats children without regard to race, religion or ability to pay, is dedicated to fulfilling the dream of its founder, Danny Thomas, that no child should die in the dawn of life

Tickets are $50 each, and tables of ten are available. The Westin O'Hare Hotel is located at 6100 N. River Road in Rosemont. Call the Midwest Regional St. Jude Office for tickets: 312-786-0460.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q With the holidays coming up I realize that I need a few more dollars to make this holiday season special for my family. I have looked into the possibility of getting an extra job just for the holiday season to gain income and not have to be so strained when the bills hit in January. I mentioned this to someone in my office as we were at lunch pondering the expensive wishlists of our families, when one of my co-workers stated that the company does not react well to having a second job. That's crazy. Why should my employer care if I work two jobs or not, is it any of his business? They have me afraid to even talk about it for fear I'll lose my full time job. Can an employer actually tell you that you cannot have a second job? My co-workers say they can. Please tell me what I should do. This opportunity is something I need to make a decision on in the next few days or it will be gone. D.R. - via e-mail (address omitted)

A To some employers, the idea of their employees "moonlighting" can be a sensitive subject they chose not to want to know about. Yet there are companies that frown down on employees taking on a second job to make ends meet. This should have no effect what so ever in your employment, unless of course, the second job you are taking on is going to interfere in any way with your current job. How can it interfere? You did not mention what type of second job you were adding to your already long 8 hour day. If you are speaking of a job that is part time possibly 15-20 hours a week where you may put in a couple of 4 hour evenings and a weekend. This should have no effect on your ability to function at 100% for your full time employer. Perhaps the job is only on the weekends. What employers has the right to tell you what you can or cannot do with your time off work. Take the part time position as long as you are not over-doing it to a point where it becomes obvious to your co-workers or boss that you have something going on that is affecting you, such as coming in late because you overslept. The idea is to carry on business as usual without appearing to burn the candle at both ends. Wearing yourself out in order to have a special holiday season would be foolish if caused more problems than it's worth. But if you can juggle it without causing attention to it... good deal! Enjoy your holidays!

Pet OF THE WEEKHATTIE

To see this one is to fall in love! Hattie is only about 15 weeks old. She's a tiny Rat-Terrier mix with a shiny black coat and brown facial markings.

She is as cute as a button and completely lovable. Her adoption will include shots appropriate for her age, and a certificate for her to be spayed. She brings a very generous supply of affection and devotion along with her!

For information on adoption, volunteering, programs or the November 4 event, please call:

Talking Turkey

By TIM FROEHLIG
Staff Reporter

A quest for a fresh bird in Lake County comes up with a learning experience instead

Milk and cookies for Santa at Christmas-time. Lighting the menorah during Hanukkah. And then there's the ever-popular turkey dinner on Thanksgiving. These are all traditions that go back a long way.

With this in mind, it was time to take to the roads of Lake County and find a turkey farm that would let me hand-pick one of these feathered birds. After all, I had never picked out a fresh turkey to celebrate Thanksgiving before. My experiences have always been restricted to the frozen food section at Jewel or Dominick's.

Picking out a bird, I figured, would be an adventure—a fun one. With no specific destination in mind, I began by calling a few local farms that raised cattle or pigs for some suggestions. After all, there must be some turkey farms somewhere in Lake County. I opened up the phone book and called the Brighton Farm in Antioch.

"Hello?" said a quiet female voice on the other end.

"Is this the Brighton Farm? I asked.

"Yes it is," the woman replied.

"Do you know if there are any turkey farms in Lake County?" She paused for a moment, and answered.

"Gosh... I don't think so. There used to be, but there aren't any that I know of," she said.

I continued the search, by calling the Lake County Farm Bureau, over 100 Internet sites, and the nearest Turkey Farm I found was Kauffman Turkey Farms in DeKalb County.

But my searching was not in vain. My travels through books, the Internet, and elsewhere taught me a thing or two about Thanksgiving tradition.

After all, tradition is what Thanksgiving is all about, right? But how much do people really know about the origin of this holiday? The facts may surprise you.

When the Pilgrims first set foot on land at Plymouth Rock in December of 1620, they had to endure an extremely harsh winter. In fact, nearly half of the 102 passengers on the Mayflower who emigrated from Europe lost their lives by the following fall.

In 1621, those who survived the harsh weather and other illnesses decided to have a festival celebrating their first year of life in what we now call the United States. However, if it weren't for some unexpected help from some new friends, none of the Pilgrims may have survived at all.

During the first year, they were assisted by an Indian tribe who traded food, furs and other items. The Indians' generosity earned them an invitation to the Pilgrims' festival, which lasted three days, and was a little bit different than the way Thanksgiving is celebrated today. It lasted three days, but what many people do not know is turkey was probably not a part of the first "Thanksgiving" feast.

Instead, they ate fish, berries, lobster, clams, dried fruit, venison and plums. Because there were no domesticated cattle, milk and butter were not a part of the festival. Interestingly, potatoes were not included either, as the settlers thought they might be poisonous.

Who wants to be the president?

As the election draws near, many voters are still asking themselves, "Does anybody know how the Republican and Democratic Presidential candidates really stand on the issues?" The answer, of course, is "on their tippy, tippy-toes." But some of us want to know more, such as "What kind of SHOES are they wearing on their tippy, tippy-toes?"

And after watching all three debates (along with the approximately 17 other Americans across the country who tuned in), I still don't know the answer to that question. Or any other question, either.

Personally, I blame this on whoever chose Jim Lehrer as the moderator of these debates. If the debate committee really wanted Americans to watch the debates, they would have chosen someone who can command national attention, someone who could make the candidates pick an answer and stick with it...finally.

No, silly, I'm not talking about the IRS. I'm talking about Regis Philbin. I'm shocked that no one saw the potential of having the candidates appear on a political version of Mr. Philbin's mega-hit show, "Who Wants to Be a Millionaire?"

Of course, I realize it would have been necessary to waive the original stipulations for appearing as a contestant, which consist of giving correct answers to several mentally challenging questions over the phone. Americans would want to see all the candidates on the show, not just Al Gore.

Speaking of all the candidates, they could have included Ralph Nader, if only so viewers could enjoy counting how many times he answered "corporate greed", even when it wasn't one of the choices.

Too bad there are no more debates on the schedule. Still, I can dream...

Abear's dream channel presents: Who Wants to be the President?

Regis: Good evening, America, and welcome to this special edition of our show. Our contestants tonight are Democratic candidate Al Gore; Republican candidate George Dubya

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

Bush; and the spoiler candidate—just kidding, I mean the Green Party candidate and well-known consumer advocate, Mr. Ralph Nader. Welcome to our show, gentlemen.

Nader: That comment is just another example of corporate greed by the networks.

At-Home Viewer: Ha! That's one!

Regis: I apologize Ralph. And let me just say that I will not allow my new, made in the USA clothing line to be manufactured by workers who are underage.

Nader: I'll bet. No doubt you'll choose Texas, where the minimum wage is still under $4.00, despite a new national minimum wage of over $5.00, which is another example of oily corporate greed.

At-Home Viewer: That's two...

Regis: We'll be right back after this commercial. Okay, Ralph, I guess I need to remind you of the rules. Number one, shut up until I give you the multiple-choice question. Number two, shut up.

Gore: Excuse me, Regis, but as far as I know, there is no controlling legal authority for game shows.

Regis: Put a sock in it, Mr. Vice-President...

Bush: I heard he already did. Anyway, I think the American people ought to decide the rules, don't you, Mr. Philamin?

Regis: (mumbling to himself) Kathie Lee is sounding better every minute...OKAY, AMERICA, we're back and ready to play "WHO WANTS TO BE THE PRESIDENT?"

Just for tonight, we are deviating from our usual format for the sake of time. We will allow all contestants to play simultaneously in this manner: each candidate will be asked a different $100 question, then each candidate will be asked a $250 question, and so on, with each candidate adding their winnings to their campaign fund. Are you ready, gentlemen?

Bush: I'm a little fuzzy on those dollar-number things, but I'll wing it.

Gore: Sounds like your plans for the surplus, Governor. I, on the other hand, got an A in numbers. I got an A in everything. I may even have invented the letter "A."

Nader: I see greedy people...

At-Home Viewer: I'm not sure, but I think that's three...

Regis: Gentlemen, can we get on with it? First question is for Mr. Gore...

Bush: Why does he get to go first? My Dad was President, you know...

Gore: One term, little Dubya. One term.

Bush: Oh, yeah? Here's a term for your administration: "interim."

Nader: Ah, ha! Sexual greed.

At-Home Viewer: Oh, goody, Henry. Now they're talking dirty.

Regis: THAT'S IT! I QUIT! GET KATHIE LEE ON THE PHONE!

Gore: Phone? Didn't I invent that?

Nader: Who's the spoiler now, huh?

It's Regis!

Bush: Of course it is! He's a major #%$%!

Gore: I heard that! I'm telling!

Announcer: We interrupt our regularly scheduled broadcast for a surprise state-of-the-union address from our nation's lame duck...I mean President Bill Clinton.

Clinton: My fellow Americans, after viewing yet another fiasco of a debate, I can feel your pain...so why not change the law and elect me for 4 more years? I can promise you this—it won't be boring!

Wow. I believe I just heard a politician make a promise he could probably keep.

Now I KNOW I'm dreaming.

Hike Lake County trails

There's still time to hike seven designated Lake County Forest Preserve trails this fall and receive a commemorative shield for your walking stick as part of the Lake County Forest Preserves' second annual "Hike Lake County" event.

Participants record their hikes in an official Hike Lake County Travel Log. All hikes must be completed by November 30. Upon completion of their Travel Log, participants will receive a commemorative shield (free for Lake County residents; $10 for out-of-county residents).

The trails designated for this fall's programs are located at: Cuba Marsh (Barrington); Des Plaines River Trail North Wetlands Project (Wadsworth); Grant Woods (Fox Lake); Greenbelt (Waukegan); Half Day/Wright Woods (Lindenhurst); Lakewood (Wauconda); Lyons Woods (Beach Park); McDonald Woods (Lindenhurst); Old School (Libertyville); Prairie Wolf Slough (Lake Forest); Ryerson Woods (Deerfield); and Van Patten Woods (Wadsworth).

Hike seven of 12 trails on your own or with a group. Forest Preserve "Hike Lake County Serendipity Hikes", "Monday Movers", and "Forest Fitness" hiking groups will cover several of the Hike Lake County trails this fall.

Each fall features new trails and a colorful new shield. Earn them all and watch your hiking stick fill with colorful reminders of autumn hikes in your Lake County Forest Preserves. Unique varnished Ozark hardwood hiking sticks are available for purchase ($20) for program participants and the general public.

For more information, to receive a Travel Log and trail maps, to turn in your completed Travel Log, or to purchase a walking stick, call 367-6640 or stop by one of the following Lake County Forest Preserve offices: Brae Loch Golf Club (Grayslake), General Offices (Libertyville), Lake County Discovery Museum (Wauconda), Operations Office (Wauconda), or Ryerson Woods (Deerfield).

American Indian culture explored

Milwaukee Public Museum celebrates the history of the Wisconsin Indians through workshops, activities

Visitors can make their own beadwork, engage in American Indian folklore and learn the history of Wisconsin Indians as the Milwaukee Public Museum celebrates the traditions and culture of American Indians throughout November.

"Celebrations of Culture: American Indian" begins with three days of festivities, Nov. 4-5 from 11:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m., Nov. 6 from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. and continues every Tuesday and Thursday, Nov. 7-21.

Campbellsport, Wis. author and storyteller Karen Hartman and Dawn Scher Tomae, Museum collections manager/assistant curator of anthropology, will team to lead a group of students from the Spotted Eagle High School in a dramatic interpretation of Hartman's book, The Dreamcatcher: The Legend, the Lady, the Woman.

Published in 1994, Dream Catcher: The Legend, the Lady, the Woman, is an adaptation of an Ojibwa Indian legend about a dream catcher that entangles bad dreams in the webbing and allows only the good dreams to come through. The performances are at 1 p.m. Nov. 4-5 and 10 & 11:45 a.m. Nov. 6 in the Erwin C. Uihlein Gallery. Pre-registration required for Monday performance. To register call (414) 278-2714.

Other activities include:

A look at Pow-wow regalia, both traditional and modern, has influenced contemporary fashion. The 45-minute presentation includes Pow-wow dancing and is at 11:30 a.m. Nov. 4-5 and 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Nov. 6 in the Erwin C. Uihlein Gallery.

A beading workshop with Oneida artist Cecilia Krawytz. Krawytz will share her expertise on the technique of beading, showcasing her award-winning style and discuss the history of American Woodland Indian beading. Visitors will also get a chance to try their hand at beading. The workshop is at 11:30 a.m., 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. Nov. 5, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Nov. 6, 9, 16, and 21 on the second floor.

Programming is free with general admission and made possible with a grant from the Miller Brewing Company. Admission is $6.50 for adults, $5 for senior citizens (60 plus), and $4 for children (4-17). Admission is free on Mondays to Milwaukee County residents with identification.

"Celebrations of Culture" is a cooperative effort of the Museum's Education Department and the Museum's Cultural Council. The Milwaukee Public Museum is located at 800 Wells St., Milwaukee. Call (414) 278-2723 for more information.

FROM LAKELIFE 1

TURKEY

The Pilgrims did not repeat their feast the following year, but in 1623, these same settlers gathered in prayer during a severe drought and prayed for rain. The next day a long steady rain came, prompting another day of Thanksgiving. Again, the Indians were invited.

However, the Pilgrims would not hold another Thanksgiving celebration until over 40 years later. On June 20, 1676, the governing council of Charlestown, Mass. held a meeting about how to express thanks for the good fortune that allowed their community to grow. The council then decided unanimously to proclaim June 29 as a day of Thanksgiving.

It wasn't until 1789 that Thanksgiving became a national event. That year, President George Washington proclaimed a national day of Thanksgiving. However, many colonists felt the difficulties of a few Pilgrims did not warrant a national holiday. One of those colonists against the idea was Thomas Jefferson. Thus, there was still no specific day recognized by the United States as Thanksgiving.

There are two people who are actually responsible for the Thanksgiving holiday today as we know it. One is a woman named Sarah Josepha Hale, a woman who spent nearly 40 years writing editorials in women's magazines. She also wrote letters to the government and several presidents urging them to designate a specific day as a Thanksgiving holiday. Her determination paid off.

In 1863, Illinois' very own Abraham Lincoln proclaimed the last Thursday in November as a national day of Thanksgiving. The holiday was changed to the next to last Thursday in November by Franklin Roosevelt, to allow citizens an extra week of Christmas shopping time. However, public uproar caused him to change the holiday to the last Thursday in November. Finally, in 1941, Congress approved Thanksgiving as a national holiday, and designated it to be the fourth Thursday in November—a tradition that continues today.

And as for a fresh Thanksgiving bird, it looks like a grocery store or butcher will be all the closer I am going to get.

Native American Pow-Wow to educate and entertain

Native American culture will take center stage at the seventh annual Traditional Pow-Wow held from 11 a.m.-9:30 p.m. on Nov. 4 in the Northern Illinois University Recreation Center, DeKalb. This year's event will feature traditional dance, food, and crafts with an expected crowd of more than 4,000 people.

The Pow-Wow's purpose is to introduce and educate the community about Native American culture. "People can come out and see that the stereotypes in the cowboy movies are not accurate representations of what Native Americans are really like," says Rita Reynolds, NIU Graduate School business manager and the Pow-Wow's director.

The Grand Entry, a display of the Native America flag, which includes Eagle Feathers, along with the American flag and the POW-MIA flag, will honor Native American and American veterans at 1 p.m. and again at 7 p.m. with participants in full regalia.

Raffles, featuring donations from various vendors, will be held at 3 p.m. and 9 p.m. A Native American quilt will be raffled off at 9 p.m. A special give-away for children and adults, made possible by Pepsi, will take place at 4:30 p.m.

Current fall 2000 enrollment statistics show 75 students attending NIU are of Native American descent. Reynolds has spent the last year raising over $4,000 in scholarship money, in an effort to recruit more Native American students to Northern, but more funds are needed, she said.

The Pow-Wow is sponsored by NIU's Native American organization, NATIONS (Native Americans Together Insuring Our Nation's Sovereignty). Admission is free. Volunteers are needed to work two-hour shifts during the event. For more information or to donate to the scholarship fund, contact Reynolds at (815) 753-0722.

SPECIAL EVENT

Nation's oldest warship drops anchor in Chicago

Old Ironsides Across the Nation," a partnership between the US Navy and the USS Constitution Museum, brings the story of our nation's oldest commissioned warship to the Midwest the first week of November. Staff and active duty sailors from the USS Constitution will be offering a range of educational activities and demonstration during the November 3rd through 6th visit to Navy Pier. Join the staff and crew for free family activities and special demonstrations. See the Constitution's crew load a long gun on a life-size replica gun deck and enjoy hands-on activities including knot-tying, reading signal flags and handling objects from the ship. Events begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday, November 4 and Sunday, November 5 and last until 6 p.m. on both days.

Residents of the Midwest are invited to enter a lottery from which 100 winners will be chosen to be aboard the USS Constitution for a tug-powered cruise in Boston Harbor on July 21, 2001. Lottery forms will be available at all events.

A free teacher workshop takes place at the Chicago Historical Society, Clark St. at North Ave., Chicago, on November 6 from 3:30-6:30 p.m. The workshop promotes the curriculum "All Hands on Deck: Learning Adventures Aboard 'Old Ironsides'."

The USS Constitution and the USS Constitution Museum are located in Boston's historic Charleston Navy Yard on Boston's Freedom Trail. Admission to both the museum and the ship is free. The ship is an active duty United States Navy command and was commissioned as a ship on October 21, 1797. For additional information, call (617) 426-1812, ext. 166 or visit the web site at www.ussconstitutionmuseum.org.

NATURE

Treat the little ones to a walk at dusk to look for owls at the Lake County Forest Preserve's "Owl Moon," on Sunday, Nov. 5 and 12 from 4-5 p.m. Learn about owls, their adaptations and importance in a brief presentation. Then go on a hike in the fading light to listen for a variety of owls. Families with children of all ages are welcome. Cost is $4 for Lake Co. residents and reservations and prepayment is necessary. The walk takes place at the Old School Forest Preserve, St. Mary's Rd., Libertyville. Call 968-3321 for information.

'Superfudge' on stage

Theatreworks/USA brings "Superfudge," a fun-filled musical adaptation of award-winning author Judy Blume's book, to Centre East Theatre at the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie, Nov. 4 at 1 p.m. The well-known story is recommended for children ages 6-10.

"Superfudge" tells the story of the Hatcher family, told from the point of view of 11-year-old Peter. As the eldest of two boys, Peter is often called upon to help out his parents, and with his younger brother, 4-year-old "Fudge." As far as Peter is concerned, Fudge is embarrassing and annoying.

Tickets are $11 for adults and $9 for children 12 and under and may be purchased by calling the Centre East box office at 673-6300 or Ticketmaster at (312) 902-1500.

Christie's 'The Hollow'

The Stage Two Theatre Company is joining a successful tradition of the Cuneo Museum and Gardens, 1350N. Milwaukee Ave. (Rt. 21) Vernon Hills, by producing its annual murder mystery, this year featuring "The Hollow," by Agatha Christie.

"The Hollow" runs through Nov. 19. Performances are at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday - Sunday and 3 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. The cost is $15 for the general public, $12 for Students/Seniors/members/Military and $10 for groups of 8 or more.

For more information call The Cuneo Museum and Gardens at 362-3042.

Good Grief Charlie Brown!

The Christian Youth Theater presents "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," on Nov. 4 at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 5 at 2 p.m. All performances will be at the Christian Arts Auditorium, 2500 Dowie Memorial Dr., Zion. Tickets may be reserved by calling the box office at (815) 445-9207 or purchased at the theater one hour before the show. Suggested donations are $7 adults and $6 children 12 and under.

'Beau Jest' offers laughs

"Beau Jest" is now playing at The Attic Playhouse, 410 Sheridan Rd., Highland (just north of Rt. 22/ Half Day Rd.).

The play revolves around the character, Sarah Goldman. Her boyfriend, Chris, has never met her family's standards (he wasn't Jewish), so Sarah decides to date him in private while telling her parents that she has met someone new—a nice Jewish doctor. The fated couple have many hilarious obstacles to overcome as the play continues.

Performances run through November 19 on Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m. Tickets are $14 advanced purchase and $15 at the door. Special discounts are given to senior citizens, students w/ ID, military, and groups.

ANTIQUES

Free appraisals offered

The Chicago O'Hare Fall Antiques Show and Sale returns to the Donald E. Stephens Convention Center, N. River Rd., Rosemont, on November 3, 4 and 5. The show will offer tens of thousands one-of-a-kind antiques and collectibles.

New to this year's show is the Yahoo! Auctions Free Appraisal Event, presented by Eppraisals.com. The event will be web cast via Yahoo! on Saturday, Nov. 4 from noon-6 p.m.

Show hours are Friday, Nov. 3, 11 a.m.-8 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 4, 11 a.m.-7 p.m.; and Sunday, Nov. 5 from noon-6 p.m. Admission is $8 and good for return entry all three days. Children 12 and under are admitted free. Call (954) 563-6747.

Antiquarian book fair

The Midwest Bookhunters Fall Book Fair will be held Sunday, Nov. 5, from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. in Building A, The Student Administration Center, at William Rainey Harper College, 1200 West Algonquin Rd. in Palatine, Illinois. Fifty book dealers from at least seven Midwestern states will sell antiquarian and rare, collectable, out-of-print, and gently-used books, maps, prints, pamphlets and other printed matter. Admission is $6, or $4 for students with valid ID. A portion of the proceeds from the admissions will benefit Literacy Chicago.

ARTS & CRAFTS

'All the Trimmings'

The AIDS Foundation of Chicago (AFC) invites artists to donate ornaments for its seventh annual "All the Trimmings 2000" benefit. The deadline for submissions is Tuesday, Nov. 21. Established in 1985 to coordinate local response to the epidemic, the AFC is the largest source of philanthropic support for AIDS programs in the Midwest. All proceeds from ornament sales will benefit HIV/AIDS care services, education and prevention programs supported by AFC.

Submitted ornaments should be 8 inches in diameter, ready to hang and include a suggested retail price. Submissions must be received by Nov. 21. Mail to: All the Trimmings 2000, AIDS Foundation of Chicago, 411 S. Wells #300, Chicago, 60607. Questions should be directed to Anna Reahl, (312) 922-2322, ext. 322.

"All the Trimmings 2000" ornament sale and holiday boutique will be held Thursday, Nov. 30, 5:30-8 p.m. at the Chicago Cultural Center.

Al Franken kicks off Center East's election series

Only ten days after the election results are announced, Al Franken, political satirist, comedian, writer, producer, and actor makes his Centre East debut. The Saturday Night Live alumnus performs Nov. 17 at 7 and 9:30 p.m. at the Centre East Theatre in the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie, 9501 Skokie Blvd. Franken kicks off Centre East's election series, which also includes Capitol Steps (Jan. 20) and Mark Russell (April 21).

Al Franken

Most well know for his work as a political satirist, Franken provided commentary for CNN at the 1988 Democratic National Convention in Atlanta. In 1992, he anchored Comedy Central's 'Indecision '92' winning wide critical acclaim for his coverage of both conventions and election night. In 1996, he again covered the party conventions and election night for Politically Incorrect, where he continues to be a frequent guest. He has also been a frequent guest on The Tonight Show with Jay Leno, and The Late Show with David Letterman. His performances at the 1994 and 1996 White House Correspondents Dinners established Franken as one of the nation's top after-dinner speakers. He has also been active in the 2000 conventions as an ABC News Radio official correspondent.

Franken's 1999 book, Rush Limbaugh is a Big Fat Idiot and Other Observations, was number one on the New York Times bestseller list and sold nearly a million copies. Franken's latest New York Times bestseller, Why Not Me?, is a fictional chronicle of his successful bid for the Presidency, where he remarkably chose Joseph Lieberman as his vice presidential running mate.

Franken was a member of the original writing staff that created the groundbreaking late night show, Saturday Night Live. Franken worked on the show for more than 15 years and received four Emmys for his writing and a fifth four producing. As a cast member, his most popular character was the new age cable host, Stuart Smalley.

Smalley is the subject of Franken's 1992 book, I'm Good Enough, I'm Smart Enough, and Doggone It, People Like Me. It is currently in its fifth printing, and has provided the basis of a movie, Stuart Saves his Family, written by and starring Al Franken. The album based on the book was nominated for a Grammy in the 'best comedy' category.

Al Franken will perform political comedy at Centre East on Nov. 17 at 7 and 9:30 p.m. Centre East is located at the North Shore Center for the Performing Arts in Skokie, 9501 Skokie Blvd. Tickets are $39. For ticket information call the Centre East box office at 673-6300 or Ticketmaster at (312) 902-1500.

'Lost Souls' storyline loses battle against predictability

Winona Ryder as Maya Larkin in New Line's "Lost Souls."

Mirroring other films like "Stigmata" and "End of Days," the plot of "Lost Souls" gives way to the typical, black and white storyline of good versus evil, God versus the devil. Thus, it holds no surprises, for we already know the ending of such tales.

The story follows Maya Larkin (Winona Ryder), who is asked to be an aid in an exorcism by the same Catholic priest who exorcised her, we learn not soon after. When they get to the mental hospital, something goes seriously wrong with the exorcism. This leaves the priest in a mentally reclusive state himself and the mental serial killer Henry Birdson (John Diehl) still possessed.

Birdson had been writing seemingly jumbles of numbers before the exorcism, which Larkin grabs on her way out. The numbers, she discovers, are an alphabetical code spelling the name of Peter Kelson (Ben Chaplin). Kelson is the man Satan has chosen to re-appear in to rule the earth.

Larkin knows this and first has to convince Kelson he's going to be transformed into the devil. Then she must somehow stop it from happening. There is the black and white of the movie.

With the plot holding no surprises, what's left to be commented on are the artful shots used by director Janusz Kaminski.

The audience gets up close and personal with Birdson by the camera flowing up from his number scribbling hand, to his black haired arm, past his black-bearded chin and cheek, finally resting on his evil black eye. It all helps give the eerie feel psychological thrills necessitate.

We see Kaminski follow the same pattern while Larkin is trying to decipher Birdson's code.

A water theme is also used throughout the movie. The opening credits run to dripping water. Then, quickly following there's Larkin's brushing her teeth.

Shortly there after is the holy water emphasized in the exorcism. The first really "scary" scene is of Larkin in the bathroom, again, with water dripping and overflowing the sink. And, with all the rain in the movie, when you leave the theater it feels like you've just taken a shower.

Another theme in the movie is the use of the darkness. We see Kelson typing at his desk with only one light. The church scenes are poorly lit. When Larkin and Kelson travel to investigate the dead deacon's home, looking for a clue how to stop Kelson's transformation into Satan, bulbs blow out and they are left wandering the house in semi-darkness.

The movie is not overly gory for a thriller and those looking for an extreme scare, and not as jumpy as myself, may be disappointed.

The ending also leaves much to be wanting. It too, some may find disappointing. It was as if the writers, Betsy Stahl and Pierce Gardner, just gave up and quit.

There's no remarkable acting in the movie, either by Ryder or Chaplin. However, we are given enough background behind their characters to make them believable.

As scary movies go, this one is worth waiting for video to watch on the comfort of your couch in the dark with the kitchen sink dripping. I give it two and a half popcorn boxes.

Highland Park Players present 'How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying'

The curtain will rise on Highland Park Players' 13th annual musical production, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" which will be presented on Nov. 3, 4, 10, and 11 at 8 p.m. and Nov. 5 and 12 at 2 p.m. The production will take place in the Misner Auditorium at Central School, 621 Grove St., Glencoe.

Lead roles will be played by Jason Groh (Chicago) as Finch, Missy Greenberg (Highland Park) as Rosemary, Scott Hansfield (Deerfield) as Frump, Cheri Trier (Wilmette) as Hedy, David Miller (Highland Park) as Biggley, and Ira Rosenthal (Highland Park) as Womper.

"How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" is directed by Catherine Davis and choreographed by Marianne Lubershan Brown with musical direction by David Belew.

According to producer James Knapp, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" is a quirky musical satire about office politics and climbing to the top.

Tickets are available at Karger and West Ridge Center in Highland Park and are $12 in advance and $14 at the door. Group sales are available. Tickets can also be ordered by calling 604-4771.

Scott Hansfield and Cheri Trier star in Highland Park Players' production of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" presented at Central School, 621 Grove St., Glencoe.

NOW PLAYING

Best In Show

Although Christopher Guest's new "Best In Show" is very funny, it suffers from the fact that nothing new is brought to the screen.

Like his directorial debut, "Waiting For Guffman," "Best In Show," is made as a documentary, following several dog owners who are traveling to Philadelphia for the Mayflower dog show.

Though recycled in style and humor, the characters are strong and funny enough to carry the movie through its pretty-much non-existent story line.

Though flawed, "Best In Show" was definitely worth seeing. Three and a half popcorn boxes.—Tim O'Donnell

Meet the Parents

Watching "Meet the Parents" could possibly be enough to scare off any potential suitor faced with the prospect of asking his girlfriend's father for permission.

At first, the misunderstandings between Greg Focker (Ben Stiller) and Jack Byrnes (Robert Deniro) are comical. They then move from just funny to downright uncomfortable. Audience members genuinely feel sorry for Focker (which is how Byrnes continually refers to him, by his last name which sounds eerily close to the swear word).

"Meet the Parents" is laugh-out loud funny, but average as far as movies go. Three popcorn boxes.—Michelle Habrych

Pay It Forward

If you can't miss an episode of "Touched by an Angel" and you own your very own copy of "It's a Wonderful Life," you are the audience Mimi Leder was seeking. Leder doesn't miss a trick with "Pay It Forward," her adaptation of Catharine Ryan Hyde's novel about a young boy who tries to change the world with an Amway-like scheme of good deeds.

A sure-fire cast of three of the most commercially-viable and talented actors (Kevin Spacey, Helen Hunt, Haley Joel Osment) make a valiant attempt to lift us up to a higher plane, but some obvious flaws, including a hackneyed script and heavy-handed direction, make this effort fall short of the Capra classic it wants to emulate. Three popcorn boxes.—Brenda Balin-Beitscher

Remember The Titans

Imagine "Dead Poets Society" on the football field with some racial tension and you've got the thoroughly inspiring "Remember the Titans."

Based on the true story of a racially torn Alexandria, Va. in 1971, the movie focuses on T.C. Williams High School, forced to integrate. "Remember the Titans" is truly a feel-good movie. For blending drama, comedy, romance, adventure and sports, Five popcorn boxes.—Michelle Habrych

ANSWERS

Aries - March 21/April 20

While it's going to be difficult, keep your opinions to yourself when meeting with business associates early in the week, Aries. Your input only will make the situation tense. So, let the others say what they have to say, and keep quiet. A close friend drops by unexpectedly on Thursday. Listen to what he or she has to say.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't get upset when a loved one cancels plans with you on short notice. Something important really does come up. So, instead of getting angry, see if there is anything that you can do to help. Your offer will be appreciated. An acquaintance asks your advice about a personal matter. Give him or her your honest opinion.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

That special someone turns to you for help with a business matter. While you don't know much about the situation, give him or her your gut reaction. It won't be a definite answer to the problem, but it will give this person food for thought. A loved one offers to take you out to dinner late in the week. Say yes.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Don't beat yourself up when you make an honest mistake early in the week, Cancer. Your error doesn't create any serious problems. So, just work to correct it, and move on. That special someone has a surprise for you late in the week. Enjoy! Scorpio plays an important role.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Keep your eyes and ears open while at work this week, Leo, because something is fishy. However, there's no need to get upset; it doesn't involve you. You meet someone interesting while out with friends late in the week. Get to know this person better, because he or she can become an important ally.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

While you want to be alone this week, you're not going to get your wish. It seems as if everyone needs something from you all of a sudden. Do what you can for these people, but don't spread yourself too thin. You have to look out for yourself. Sagittarius plays a key role on Friday.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Don't get involved when loved ones have a disagreement on Monday. They need to work this out themselves. Your input only will complicate matters. So, as much as you want to help, stay out of it.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

You have an important task to complete this week, Scorpio, and several people are counting on you to get it done. So, don't let others distract you from the matter at hand. If you stay focused and work diligently, you're sure to get everything accomplished. Your efforts will be rewarded. Aquarius plays an important role.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Stand up for yourself when a business associate accuses you of making a mistake. You know that you have nothing to do with it. Explain yourself calmly and logically, and you're sure to gain the support of others. That special someone asks you an important question. Answer him or her honestly.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

While you'd much rather be giving the directions than taking them, that's not the way it's going to be when a financial problem arises early in the week. Listen to what a more experienced loved one has to say, and follow his or her advice. It's the best way to handle this situation.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Don't be concerned when an acquaintance offers to assist you with a personal problem, Aquarius. This person isn't trying to intrude in your life; he or she just wants to help. Accept the offer, because you know that you can't handle this on your own.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Keep your sense of humor about you on Wednesday, Pisces, because you are going to need it. A family problem arises and puts everyone on edge. Trying to laugh at the situation is the best way to handle the tension. Loved ones will laugh with you.

College hosts Country Collections folk art faire

The Country Collections Traditional Craft and Folk Art Faire, Nov. 10-12 in the Wellness and Sports Center at Harper College, 1200 W. Algonquin Rd., Palatine, has the cure for "terminal" holiday shopping lists. One hundred traditional folk artists and country crafters from the Chicago area, as well as ten other states, will display and sell thousands of unusual hand crafted items suitable for everyone on your list, from Uncle Joe and Cousin Sue, to the classroom teacher and Scout leader.

This is the 16th Annual Fall Country Collections Show and Sale and it will showcase a variety of traditional American folk arts such as quilting, doll making, wood carving, dried floral arranging, pressed flower artwork, appliqué designs on clothing, and rag rug weaving.

All the artists will be available to answer questions and talk about their work.

Better yet, the gifts you buy reflect the individual styles and talents of the artists. They can't be found on any shelf in the mall.

Bill and Debby

Walters of Mundelein will display their pressed flowers and pressed leaf pictures and picture frames. Lori Klemm of Naperville will bring her family of quirky, holiday-themed cloth dolls, from snowmen and Santas, to angels and scarecrows. MaryAnn Johnson of Crystal Lake will bring her popular painted glassware and stoneware in holiday theme, each piece suitable for personalizing. For gourmet food gifts, Tom Carney of Lake Forest will bring English toffee, cashew brittle, and other handmade candies.

There will also be several artists from out of state who will display woodcarving and whittling, painted reproduction furniture and home décor, hand-carved kinetic wooden figures, and heirloom stichery.

"Because many of our artists come from out of state, we can offer a great variety of beautiful ly hand-made items that can't be found anywhere else," said Nancy Patek of Lombard, who organizes the twice annual Country Collections show with her husband, Mike. Traditional folk music will be performed by Joe Rubak on dulcimer and mandolin and David Fox on fiddle, guitar, and washboard. Food and beverages will be available.

Show hours are Nov. 10, 3-9 p.m., Nov. 11, 10 a.m.-5 p.m., and Nov. 12, 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Tickets are $5 ($4 for seniors) and good for all three days. Children 12 and under enter free. Extensive, free parking is available. The building is handicapped accessible.

'Ballad of Little Jo' good, —but no feel-good musical Steppenwolf has earned a fine reputation as the venue for cutting-edge theater in Chicago. It has explored the human condition—often to a startling turn—in its 25-year history.

Yet in all those years it has never turned its creative energies to a full-fledged musical format. Until now, that is.

"The Ballad of Little Jo," a new work by Mike Reid and Sarah Schlesinger, brings to the stage a rich but dark, often-evocative story embroidered from the real-life Josephine Monaghan. It runs through Nov. 11.

It covers the period 1867 to 1883 and starts with a 17-year-old girl who disgraces her prominent father by giving birth out of wedlock. An unforgiving parent forces her to leave her son with her sister and depart Boston.

For Josephine, played with disciplined spunk and enduring compassion by Judy Kuhn, the train ride westward is the start of a lifelong journey of self-discovery. Robbed and then raped in the middle of nowhere by a pair of brigands, she escapes into herself by shearing her hair, donning the clothes of a cowboy and assuming the identity of a man.

She settles in a rough-and-tumble mining town in Silver City, Idaho and befriends two of the locals, Jordan (David New, whose singing is both stylish and smart) and the woman he marries, Sara (well played by Jessica Boevers.) In the years that follow, she keeps her own counsel. But her secret identity eventually becomes her undoing when enraged townsfolk find themselves looking for scapegoats after the faltering mine has closed. They turn their wrath on Jo—a woman who lives like a man—and the injured Chinese laborer (mellow-voiced Jose Llana as Tim Man Wong) she has sheltered, a man they blame for losing their jobs.

The simple set with its realistic tree limbs punctuating the background is highly effective.

And director Tina Landau has done well with this gritty multidimensional vehicle.

Marriott Theatre presents 'The King and I'

Terry James, Executive Producer of the award winning Marriott Theatre in Lincolnshire, is proud to present 'The King and I' which opens Nov. 1 and runs through Jan. 14.

The King and I stars Kevin Gudahl as the King and Mary Ernster as Anna Leonowens. Renowned Chicago actor, Kevin Gudahl, has performed extensively at Chicago Shakespeare Theatre. As one of Chicago's most prominent leading ladies, Mary Ernster has graced the stages from Steppenwolf to Drury Lane Oakbrook. 'The King and I' is directed by Dominic Missimi and choreographed by Jennifer Kemp Lupp.

Get swept off your feet all over again when East meets West in this beloved Rodgers and Hammerstein romance. The friendship that grows between the lovely Mrs. Anna and the larger than life King of Siam transcends their conflicting cultures. Against the exotic backdrop of 19th century Siam, timeless classics like "Getting to Know You", and "Whistle a Happy Tune" spring forth with unforgettable grace and splendor. Journey with us to this enchanted land of music, dance, and romance.

The performance schedule is as follows: Wednesdays at 2 and 8 p.m.; Thursdays at 8 p.m.; Saturdays at 5 and 8:30 p.m.; and Sundays at 2:30 and 7 p.m. On Saturday, Dec. 23 and 30 the performance times are 2:30 and 7 p.m. New Year's Eve times and prices are as follows: $43 for the 5 p.m. performance with $10 off for students and senior and $48 for the 8:30 p.m. performance. There will be no discounts at the 8:30 performance. A sign language interpreted performance by Sign on Stage is scheduled for Jan. 13, at 5 p.m. Added Thursday Matinees are on Dec. 21 and Jan. 11, at 2 p.m.

Ticket prices range from $33 to $38. Students and senior citizens receive $5 off the full ticket price (excluding Friday and Saturday performances). Receive a complimentary dinner with the purchase of a full price theatre ticket for Thursday evening performances. The Thursday Night Complimentary Dinner has limited availability and is not applicable with any other discount or offer. Dinner Theatre Packages are available for all performances. Reservations can be made with a major credit card by calling the Marriott Theatre box office at 634-0200.

You'll Never Believe it...A Tie For The October Contest

Congratulations to Jon Oliphant of Mundelein and Bob Raymond of Fox Lake, the two are first co-winners of Lakeland Newspapers Fantasy Football Monthly.

Each will soon receive a check for the their share of the $100 monthly prize and both will be entered into a drawing along with the November and December winners for a football autographed by Chicago Bears star Jim Flanigan.

Both Jon and Bob team compiled 119 touchdowns, but both by very different means except quarterback, where they each ironically selected Kurt Warner, Mark Brunell, Dante Culpepper and Brian Griese.

Jons team was Warner (18), Brunell (11), Culpepper (19), Griese (17), Edgerrin James (11), Eddie George (5), Emmitt Smith (5), Stephen Davis (9), Randy Moss (8), Cris Carter (3), Issac Bruce (7) and Jimmy Smith (6).

Bobs team was Warner (18), Brunell (11), Culpepper (19), Griese (17), Marshall Faulk (14), Dorsey Levens (3), Mike Alstott (5), Stephen Davis (9), Marvin Harrison (7), Cris Carter (3), Issac Bruce (7) and Jimmy Smith (6).

The following is a list of how many rushing, throwing and receiving touchdowns were scored for all Lakeland Newspapers Fantasy Football Monthly NFL Players for the month of October. Dont forget that it is now too late to join the November contest, but send in your entries between now and Nov. 30th for the December showdown.

FANTASY FOOTBALL COMES TO LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS

Something new has come to Lakeland Newspapers this fall in the form of Fantasy Football Monthly. The new football contest challenges readers to pick NFL players from six different categories and hope that their players score more touchdowns than anybody else.

Each month readers will select their 12 players from the above categories. At the end of the month the reader who's team has the most total throwing, rushing and receiving touchdowns will win $100 from Lakeland Newspapers. Monthly winners will also be put in a drawing to win an authentic NFL football autographed by Chicago Bears star Jim Flanigan.

Enter by mailing this page with your picks, your name, address and daytime phone number to: FANTASY FOOTBALL MONTHLY, Lakeland Media, 30 S. Whitney, Grayslake, IL 60030. Entries must be in Lakelands' hands no later than the Friday before the month begins. If an entry comes in after deadline-the picks will not count until the next month's contest. The contest will begin at the beginning of each month.

Lakeland will also publish tips and player news in a weekly fantasy football column each week. If you're a football fan, then join the millions of fantasy football players throughout the country by playing Lakeland Newspapers Fantasy Football Monthly.

"Having a working smoke detector more than doubles your chances of surviving a residential fire," says Carrye Brown, United States Fire Administrator. "It's a simple, quick way to prevent your self and your loved ones from becoming one of the 4,500 Americans who die in fire every year."

The United States Fire Administration, part of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, supports the nation's firefighters with training, fire data analysis, public education and research in fire protecting technology. Officials of USFA offer these 10 tips to stay fire safe this winter:

- Space heaters need space. Place them at least 3 feet away from flammable materials. Buy space heaters that shut off automatically if they tip over, use fuel recommended by the manufacturer and never refill a space heater while it's still running or still hot. Refuel space heaters outside, away from the house.

- Never leave children unattended near space heaters or wood stoves.

- Use a glass or metal screen in front of your fireplace to prevent sparks from igniting nearby carpets and furniture.

- Never use flammable liquids, like gasoline, to start or accelerate any fire.

- Never use your oven or stove to heat your home. In addition to being a fire hazard, it can also be a source of toxic fumes.

- Have your furnace and chimney professionally inspected each year and have them cleaned if necessary. The buildup of creosote — a byproduct of burning wood — is a common cause of chimney fires.

- Never thaw frozen pipes with a blow torch or other open flame. Use hot water or an Underwriters Laboratory listed device such as a hand-held dryer.

- Dispose of hot ashes and embers in airtight metal containers and place them away from the house.

- Make sure wood stoves are properly installed and have adequate ventilation.

- If there is a fire hydrant near your home, keep it clear of snow and ice for easy access by the fire department.

Since more than 80 percent of all fire deaths occur in the home, following these simply safety steps may save your family's lives and property.

"The vast majority of all fire deaths and injuries are preventable, and winter fire deaths are particularly avoidable," USFA's Brown says. "Prevention is your best defense against becoming a fire statistic this winter."
